DEMOCRATS SELECT WILSON FOR PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE AND MARSHALL AS HIS RUNNING MATE

New Jersey Governor Is Nominated on Forty-Sixth Ballot by 990 Votes

ACTION IS MADE UNANIMOUS

Underwood and Foss Withdraw and Strength Thrown to Leader at the Last

BALTIMORE, July 2. — Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey was nominated for president of the United States by the Democratic national convention at the afternoon session today, when, on the forty-sixth ballot, he received 990 votes to 84 for Champ Clark. The Missouri delegation, which had remained faithful to Clark to the end, then moved that the nomination be made unanimous. There was a great chorus of approval and the long fight was over.

Only four ballots were necessary today to reach a nomination. When the convention adjourned last night the convention had seemed to be in an all but hopeless deadlock. Wilson had begun to lose ground on the last few ballots and Champ Clark had made a few temporary gains. This encouraged the speaker to rush over to Baltimore from Washington this morning in the hope of still further turning the tide and rallying his forces to a final stand. When the speaker arrived, however, he learned that the Illinois delegation at an early morning conference had decided to switch from Clark to Wilson. This meant a change of 58 votes, and was as fatal to Clark's chances as it was inspiring to the Wilson forces.

West Virginia Joins Illinois.

The Wilson forces went to the convention hall at noon in the firm belief that the New Jersey governor would be nominated before another adjournment was taken. As they had expected, the vote of Illinois marked the beginning of the end. West Virginia joined hands with Illinois in going over to Wilson on the forty-third ballot, the first cast today.

Wilson jumped from his final vote of 494 last night to 602 on the first ballot today. The figures told their own story. The Wilson delegates were jubilant as Chairman James directed the second call of the day—the forty-fourth of the convention. The most important change on this ballot was in the Colorado delegation, which had been voting 4 for Clark and one for Wilson. This time Colorado divided 10 to 2 in favor of Wilson. Altogether the ultimate nominee gained 27 votes on this ballot. Then came the forty-fifth. It was disappointing in a way, for Clark held his own and Wilson made a gain of only four.

Underwood Withdrawn.

There were few in the hall at this time who did not think Wilson would win, but they feared it would take a long, long while for him to attain the 725 1-3 votes necessary to nominate. It was realized that there must be a decided "break" in the Underwood vote, which had been firm from the beginning, before any man could win.

The forty-sixth ballot had been ordered when Senator Bankhead of Alabama was seen making his way to the stage. Word flashed over the great armory that his purpose was to withdraw Mr. Underwood from the race and release his delegates to vote for whom they saw fit. The delegates, wearied by the long sessions of the past week, realized all at once that this was indeed the climax. There was a confusion of cheering, applause and calls from one delegation to another. The galleries added to the din. Senator Bankhead stood for a long while before he could proceed. He had uttered but few words when the meaning of his remarks became clear and there

FOR PRESIDENT—GOVERNOR WOODROW WILSON OF NEW JERSEY.
FOR VICE PRESIDENT—GOVERNOR THOMAS R. MARSHALL OF INDIANA.

This was the ticket completed by the Democratic national convention at 1:36 a. m. today.

The nomination of Governor Marshall for vice president came as something of a surprise, for when the night's balloting for vice president began, it seemed that the Bryan-Wilson contingent in the convention had definitely settled upon Governor Joseph E. Burke of North Dakota.

There was not much of a fight, however, and when two ballots disclosed Marshall easily in the lead, Governor Burke's name was withdrawn and Marshall was proclaimed the nominee by acclamation. A minute later the convention had adjourned sine die.

The delegates, worn weary, made their way out of the big convention hall singing and happy to start for home.

GOV. WOODROW WILSON OF NEW JERSEY.
The Nominee of the Democratic Party for the Presidency of the United States.

Convention Names Vice Presidential Nominee by Acclamation After Second Ballot

BURKE OF N. D. CLOSE RIVAL

Seven Persons Were Put in Nomination for Second Place Honors

BALTIMORE, July 2.—Gov. Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana was declared the nominee of the Democratic convention for the vice presidency by acclamation early this morning. Two ballots served to show the Indiana man's strength and his closest rival for the honor, Governor Burke of North Dakota, withdrew from the race.

At 8:50 o'clock last night the convention hall was thronged, the galleries being filled to overflowing, and everyone showed a spirit of relief over the near approach of the final scene.

Mr. Bryan reached the hall at 9:20 o'clock and was given a rousing cheer as he made his way smiling to the Nebraska delegation.

Names Placed in Nomination.

The night session convened at 9:35 p. m. The roll of states for nomination for vice president was at once ordered.

Samuel Alschuler of Illinois named Elmore W. Hurst of Rock Island, Ill., for the vice presidency.

Indiana placed Marshall in nomination.

Idaho yielded to North Dakota and former Senator Purcell placed Governor John Burke of that state in nomination.

Delegate Volner of Iowa nominated Judge Martin J. Wade of that state.

Judge Wade took the platform and declined to have his name go before the convention. He seconded the nomination of Governor Burke.

Maryland put Mayor Preston of Baltimore in nomination.

Delegate Dean Nominates Clark.

Champ Clark was placed in nomination by Delegate Dean of Georgia. Dean spoke in his capacity as an individual delegate. Dockery of Missouri took the platform to decline the nomination for Clark.

After full and careful consideration of the proposition, Dockery said Clark had decided definitely and finally that he could not accept the nomination for vice president. He said Clark was as loyal to the party and to Woodrow Wilson as any member of the party.

Clark was not influenced by pique, Dockery said, but preferred to remain in his present responsible position as speaker of the house of representatives.

Amid a great outburst of applause Dockery pledged the support of "Old Missouri" to Wilson, "first, last and all the time."

Favored by the Bryan-Wilson combination in the convention it seemed as the balloting was about to begin on the vice presidency that Gov. John E. Burke of North Dakota might be Governor Wilson's running mate. The fight seemed to be between him and Governor Marshall of Indiana.

Bryan Declines to Run.

The District of Columbia placed Mr. William Jennings Bryan's name in nomination amid laughter and cheers.

Mr. Bryan took the platform and was given a great cheer. He said for 16 years he had been a "fighting man" and now desired to say a word in the nature of a valedictory.

Mr. Bryan said if he had any enemies those who were his enemies had a monopoly in hatred, for he did not feel that way toward any human being. He said he held his country above any person.

"Tonight," said Bryan, "with joy I surrender the standard I have borne in three campaigns to the nominee of this convention and I challenge anyone to say it has ever been lowered in the face of the enemy."

Commoner Seconds Burke.

In declining to allow his name to be considered, Mr. Bryan said it was not with any desire of disparaging the office. There was no office so low, he said, that he would not fill it if he felt his country needed him.

Bryan praised the platform and Governor Wilson and said no candidate for office would be more active in the coming campaign than he.

Mr. Bryan said Governor Wilson would have a proper running mate and in conclusion seconded the nomination

Lost Solely Through Vile and Malicious Slanders of Colonel Bryan, Says Clark

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Defeated after a hard battle, but satisfied with the fortunes of war, Speaker Clark returned to the capitol from the convention city tonight and repaired to his office to thunder his renunciation of the vice presidency over the telephone as often as it was suggested to him. The speaker motored back from Baltimore, where he spent the day. He took dinner with his family and later issued a statement pledging his support to Colonel Wilson and voicing his contempt for the tactics of William J. Bryan, whom he credits with his defeat. The speaker seems the least affected of his family over the defeat.

"This was not near as hard a fight as I had to get my first nomination to congress," said the speaker.

He had no complaint to make of the final break, but said that victory could have been his had the Underwood forces helped him on the tenth ballot and thereafter. He said Senator Bankhead merely precipitated the inevitable. He seemed relieved that the strain was over.

In most emphatic terms the speaker disclaimed any desire to be vice president. He referred to the nomination of Thomas A. Hendricks for that office and said it took the Democratic party a week to prevail on him to accept it.

Speaker Clark said he would not run under any circumstances.

"I am not mad," he said, "but the vice presidency does not suit me. I am a rough and tumble debater. I am more at home in the house. I would rather be a member of that body than tied down in a chamber in which I am powerless to participate."

Diligent effort was made by the leaders in Baltimore to convince Mr. Clark that he should accept the vice presidential nomination and it was to escape the importuning of his friends that he returned to Washington. Word was conveyed to him that Mr. Bryan desired to nominate him and that the nomination would be made by acclamation. To all couriers Mr. Clark gave the same reply and when he heard that the nomination was being considered in spite of his refusal he displayed some temper.

"Tell those people over there I will not take that nomination," he instructed the Associated Press when told of his persistence of the movement.

On his return to Washington from Baltimore, Speaker Clark issued the following statement:

"No set of men made a better or braver fight for any man in this world than my friends all over the country made for me. They have my heartfelt thanks. We never had money enough even to pay for an adequate supply of postage stamps and literature. I was tied down here by my duties of the speakership. I could, therefore, aid my friends very little. They made the fight, gave me 200,000 majority in the states where Governor Wilson and I competed in the primaries and caused me to lead on 30 ballots in the convention in nine of which I had a clear majority. Nevertheless the nomination was bestowed upon Governor Wilson.

"I never scratched a Democratic ticket or bolted a Democratic nominee in my life. I shall not change the Democratic habit now. I am too seasoned a soldier not to accept cheerfully the fortunes of war.

"I will support Governor Wilson with whatever power I possess and hope he will be elected.

"I lost the nomination solely through the vile and malicious slanders of Col. William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska. True these slanders were by inuendo and insinuation, but they were no less deadly for that reason.

(Signed) "CHAMP CLARK."

ROOSEVELT MEN IN S. D. VICTORS IN FIRST ROUND

HURON, S. D., July 2.—The Roosevelt men won the first round in the South Dakota Republican convention today, electing E. G. Kennedy of Canton temporary chairman by a vote of 357 to 257 for M. J. Russell of Hamlin county, a Taft man.

MRS. SARAH DECKER IS SERIOUSLY ILL

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2. — Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker, former president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, was taken to a sanatorium here tonight, and is said to be seriously ill. Announcement of Mrs. Decker's illness was made at the night session of the federation by Mrs. Philip N. Moore, the president.

"We hope to have Mrs. Decker with us again in a few days," she said.

It was learned, however, that Mrs. Decker was attended by a woman physician after being taken to the sanatorium, and that this doctor called another one into consultation soon afterwards.

Dr. Cornelia De Bri of Chicago attended Mrs. Decker. At the sanatorium to which she was taken it was said tonight that she was getting along very well, and that her illness was not considered dangerous.

Dr. De Bri said tonight:

"There is no likelihood of a fatal termination of the illness at least not within 24 hours. The trouble is in the digestive tract. You never can tell how trouble of this sort is going to work out, and that is why I had Mrs. Decker taken to the sanatorium."

Hon. Harry Olson, Distinguished Chicago Jurist, to Give Annual Address

The program for the fifteenth annual meeting of the Colorado Bar association, which will be held at Broadmoor casino and the Antlers hotel, July 12 and 13, is of unusual interest.

The annual address will be given by the Hon. Harry Olson, chief justice of the municipal court of Chicago, a tribunal that is unique because it has reduced formalities of procedure and delays to a minimum, and has brought justice close to the people. His address will be on "The Municipal Court of Chicago," and Justice Olson is expected to explain the workings of a court free from unimportant technicalities.

That the spirit of reform in court procedure will influence the meetings is indicated by the program. Other addresses will be given by Thomas Ward, Jr., former United States district attorney, Denver, who will speak on "Criminal Procedure;" John H. Denison of Denver, on "Civil Procedure," and S. G. McMullin of Grand Junction, on "Water Procedure."

"There is a belief that the lawyers are responsible for the clogging of the wheels of justice, and that they are continually trying to make the law uncertain," yesterday said Henry C.

FIVE MEN FALL TO DEATH WHEN HUGE AIRSHIP AKRON IS WRECKED BY EXPLOSION

Melvin Vaniman, Who Planned to Attempt Flight Across Atlantic, Together With Brother and Crew of Three, Victims of Spectacular Accident at Atlantic City. Wives See Husbands Plunge Into Water.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 2.—Sailing out over the Atlantic ocean under perfect control and in view of several thousand interested persons, the great airship Akron in command of Melvin Vaniman with a crew of four men, exploded early today while more than 500 feet in the air and shot down into the water a tangled mass, carrying to their death the daring aviator and his companions. Death is believed to have come instantly to the five men.

In all the tragic history of disasters to airships or aeroplanes probably none was as sensational as that which brought to an end the greatest and most costly air craft ever constructed on the western hemisphere. Built to withstand the storms of the Atlantic and to carry at least a dozen men across the ocean to Europe, the Akron went to her doom in calm weather. Those who went down with the big dirigible beside the intrepid Vaniman, who already had had one thrilling experience in an airship on the ocean, were:

Calvin Vaniman, his younger brother; Fred Elmer, George Bourrillion of Philadelphia; Walter C. Gest, a friend of Vaniman's financial backer.

Up to sundown two bodies, those of Calvin Vaniman and Bourrillion, had been recovered from the wreckage which lies submerged in about 18 feet of water off Brigantine Beach.

The Akron, which had been inflated last February, was taken out shortly after 6 a. m. for a test flight. One flight already had been made about a month ago, and defects discovered at that time were remedied. Today's trial was to have been among the last prior to the attempt to cross the Atlantic.

Launched Without Difficulty.

Mrs. Vaniman bid her husband good-by at their little cottage near the hangar, at 2 a. m., and waited for daybreak to see him sail away.

The city authorities had been notified of the intended flight, and 100 policemen, firemen and other willing helpers, assigned to floating the great gas bag out of the hangar. The launching of the air craft was accomplished without difficulty, and she sailed gracefully away. Vaniman maneuvered over the inlet and then sailed down over the city. After completing a few other movements, he shaped the ship's course out to sea.

Spectators See Burst of Flames.

When a half mile off Brigantine Beach, the thousands of spectators who had been watching the ship saw a burst of flames outlined against the morning sky. In a few seconds they were horrified to see the car of the balloon detach itself from the balloon and shoot downward into the water, followed by the collapsed gas bag. Power boats and every other kind of craft in the resort were brought into use, and soon 400 boats were beating their way out over the rough waters of the inlet bay. When the first boats reached the scene of the wreck, the rescuers found only the collapsed gas bag, and, after a search, a submerged body, which proved to be that of the younger Vaniman, was recovered. Among the first on the scene were the federal life savers stationed in Atlantic City. Divers went down to the wreck, but there was little that could be done until low tide, when Bourrillion's body was disentangled from the wreckage and brought to shore.

Wives See Husbands Die.

Mrs. Vaniman saw the collapse of the balloon and its drop into the ocean, carrying with it her husband and brother-in-law. She fell in a faint, and was unconscious for some time. The wives of Bourrillion and Elmer, who lived nearby, also saw the disaster from their homes. Neighbors cared for them, and later they went over to the Vaniman cottage, where a most distressing scene followed, as the four widows wept on one another's shoulders.

After the first shock had passed, Mrs. Vaniman again collapsed, and, later in the day, was under the care of a physician. She was suffering with frequent fainting spells, and her condition is serious.

Many Theories As to Cause.

There are many theories as to the cause of the disaster. One is that air got into the gas bag; that the rays of the morning sun expanded the gas and caused the great envelope to burst. A third is that flames somehow reached the gasoline, and a fourth theory advanced was that a stray rope caught

Progressive Republicans Will Not Join Third Party; to Fight for T. R. Within Organization

"Resolved, That we Progressive Republicans, coming from 16 counties of this state and meeting at a conference held in Colorado Springs on July 2, 1912, condemn the action of the Republican national convention in unseating honestly elected delegates and thus depriving Theodore Roosevelt of the nomination in the Republican convention and defying the known wish of an overwhelming majority of Republican voters throughout the country.

"Resolved, That we do not consider a nomination secured by such fraudulent methods as binding upon the Republicans of Colorado, and therefore, in order that the Republicans of this state may vote for the honestly nominated candidate of the party, Theodore Roosevelt, the chairman of this conference, be and is hereby instructed to appoint a committee of seven to devise the ways and means by which, in the coming Republican state assembly, the will of the rank and file of the party may find expression through the nomination of electors pledged to vote for the election as president of the United States, of Theodore Roosevelt, and

"Resolved, That this committee also be empowered to take such steps as will result in the Republican assemblies and primaries, of the nomination of Republican candidates pledged to those great principles of Progressive Republicanism for which Theodore Roosevelt and the Progressive Republicans both stand."—Resolution introduced by Philip B. Stewart at a meeting of 100 prominent Progressive Republicans of the state at the Antlers hotel yesterday, and adopted by an overwhelming majority.

The above resolutions, together with an almost unanimous refusal to join the third party movement inaugurated last Saturday night by Judge Ben B. Lindsey, E. P. Costigan and others, sum up the results of the conference held by representative progressive Republicans yesterday afternoon and evening. The delegates, from many parts of the state, were firm in their approval of Stewart's stand against a third party movement, although Costigan announced that the movement will be continued, regardless of the delegates outside of Denver. All the other members of the conference voted almost without exception for Mr. Stewart's motion to enter the Republican primaries for the state assembly and try to wrest the control of the regular organization from the machine politicians by putting Roosevelt electors on the regular ballot. All through the meeting Roosevelt sentiment was at fever heat, and the speakers vied with one another in strong terms.

The conference was led from a state a[illegible] in the afternoon to 11 last night, with only a short recess for dinner. From 3 o'clock on, the leaders from the 16 counties represented wrangled over the third party question, the debate in the last hour becoming a rapid-fire affair. The last action of the conference was to vote down a motion put by J. S. Temple of Denver, approving the third party organization. Robert Work of Morgan county told the Denverites that Judge Lindsey, even if appointed by the national committee of the Roosevelt convention at Chicago, Governor Johnson of California and even Theodore Roosevelt himself, has no right to speak for the sentiment of the entire progressive Republican voters of Colorado.

Temple took the passage of the Stewart resolution as a direct repudiation of the Progressive party organized in Denver, but some of the speakers on the other side, in an effort to preserve harmony, replied that if the regular Republican organization arbitrarily unseated the Progressive delegations in the Republican state assembly, they will refuse to be bound by that action. Many Republicans believed that Temple's resolution had a tendency to read them out of the Republican party, and therefore cast their votes against it, only eight voting for his resolution.

Denver Men in Turmoil.

During the fight, conflicts were sharp and frequent. The Denver delegation was about equally divided, and the county roll was called by Chairman Ben Griffith, in order that the leaders might report on the sentiment of their communities. The request of Denver that it be passed over until the other reports were all in caused a tilt between [illegible] Burns on one side, and H. H. Eddy and Charles Varnum on the other. Burns accused the other two of being representatives who they wanted Denver's report made at once, and said they showed signs of belonging to the old and disorganized party. [illegible]

What we are trying to do is to make the law so simple that it can be understood by anyone, so that when a man has a grievance he can go into court and have it adjusted without tiresome and unnecessary delay and expenditure."

To Urge Radical Revision.

The coming meeting probably will result in the recommendation of a radical revision of the system of judicial procedure in Colorado. New members to the number of 68, the largest in the history of the association, are to be admitted.

MUSICAL CLUB SECURES WORLD FAMOUS STARS

Willet R. Willis, president of the Colorado Springs Musical club, announces that plans are rapidly being completed for this season's artist concerts, which will open October 15 with Alma Gluck, soprano from the Metropolitan Opera house, and Schraeder, cello soloist of the Boston Symphony orchestra. Schraeder has appeared in this city a number of times with the famous Kneisel quartet. He is to be in Denver October 14 for a concert with Geraldine Farrer, soprano, from the Metropolitan, and the committee thus was able to secure him for the following evening.

Madame Sembrich, soprano, has been booked for February. Louis Persinger, of Colorado Springs, whose violin playing has electrified all Europe, will have place in the artist series at a date that does not conflict with his American tour. Ernest Schelling, the much-heralded pianist, will give the fourth in the series of artist concerts.

Arrangements also have been completed whereby the violin artist, Mischa Elman, whose playing created such enthusiasm during his appearance in Colorado Springs, will give a recital under the auspices of the Musical club, outside the course, some time in March.

Members of the club are greatly elated over the news that Reinald Werrenrath, baritone, who was heard in recital here last winter, will arrive in Colorado Springs July 20, accompanied by Mrs. Werrenrath and baby, to remain a month. They will be the guests of Mrs. Werrenrath's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hans C. Peterson, 613 North Wahsatch avenue. The Misses Petersen, sisters of Mrs. Werrenrath, graduated from Colorado college last month. It is hoped that Mr. Werrenrath will consent to sing while here, for many were denied the privilege when he sang in Colorado Springs on a zero night last winter, just off from a snowbound train 82 hours late.

Support Stewart.

Karl A. Bickel of Grand Junction, with Ben Griffith, Patrick Byrnes of Pueblo, Joseph Ewing of Weld county, and other prominent progressive leaders, steadfastly refused to have anything to do with the third party movement, which they considered premature and to be handled with extreme caution. They stuck close to Philip B. Stewart and wanted to hold on to their organizations, which they control in their respective counties. They advocated putting up a bitter battle for the undisputed control of the original organization as it stood until the present campaign. Judge Starkweather, in speaking of the steam rollerites, said:

"We'll take these ruffians, who have disgraced this party of ours, and pitch them overboard at the coming election."

It was Stewart's battle all the way through, and the progressives showed their determination to stick by him in his candidacy for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Dr. E. C. Fisher of Sterling, one of the protesting delegates to Chicago, was one of the most active supporters of Costigan. With the Costigan supporters from Denver were D. C. Burns, J. S. Temple, Capt. C. S. Nettles, John Grass and City Treasurer Allison Stocker. Lindsey, Auditor J. F. Markey and Sheriff Daniel M. Sullivan did not come to the meeting.

Karl A. Bickel intimated strongly that Denver and other counties controlled by the regular organizations could get control of the machinery if they were not cowardly and would go about it in a practical, determined way.

Roy M. McClintock of Pueblo acted as secretary.

NEW JERSEY GOVERNOR

were frequent interruptions of applause and noisy demonstrations.

The only display of temper marking the nominating session came from the Missouri delegates. They demanded to know of Senator Bankhead why Mr. Underwood had not withdrawn when Clark appeared to have a chance for the nomination, and accused the Underwood delegates of "faking." Senator Bankhead paid no heed to the questions hurled at him. He said Mr. Underwood desired the success of his party above everything else and would not lend himself to any plan to prevent nomination.

From the moment Senator Bankhead reached the platform the wheels of the convention began to revolve with an energy that meant results.

Senator Stone of Missouri, who had been in consultation with Speaker Clark, climbed to the stage, and when he could make himself heard, released in the name of the speaker all of the delegates who had been pledged to him.

"As for Missouri, however," he added, "she will cast her 36 votes for Old Champ Clark to the end."

Foss' Name Also Withdrawn.

Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston followed Stone. The convention was in an almost continuous uproar. The Wilson forces already were celebrating their victory. There was no longer any doubt as to the result.

Mayor Fitzgerald withdrew the name of Governor Foss of Massachusetts from further consideration and declared that the "old Bay state" would fall in line for Woodrow Wilson.

Then a second Fitzgerald was recognized. This was the congressman from Brooklyn. He made a plea for harmony and ended by suggesting that a further roll call be dispensed with and the nomination of Wilson be made by acclamation. New York, he said, was ready to vote for the man the great body of the delegates desired as their nominee.

The faithful Missourians objected to this plan because of their desire to vote a last time for Speaker Clark.

Result Foregone Conclusion.

It was a foregone conclusion what the result would be as the last call of the states began. Alabama, which had started every other call with 24 votes for Underwood, changed to Wilson and state after state followed suit. It was just 3:15 p. m. when the solid 76 votes of Pennsylvania carried Wilson over the winning line, making his total at the time 733 votes.

The stampede did not end until 990 of the 1,088 votes in the convention had been cast for the nominee. Missouri, with her 36, had been joined on the last ballot for Clark by 24 of California's 26 votes; by five delegates from Florida; two from Louisiana; all six from Nevada; four from New Jersey, the home state of Governor Wilson; six from the District of Columbia; and one from Ohio.

This little handful readily joined in the chorus of acclamation when Senator Stone moved that the nomination be made unanimous.

It was 3:35 p. m. when Chairman James officialy declared Mr. Wilson the nominee of his party. There was an attempt at another demonstration but the delegates were too tired to keep it up long. Then, too, the local appropriation for a band had run out last Saturday night and there was no inspiring music to help along the enthusiasm. In this respect the nomination was unique. Everyone in the convention hall seemed in a happy frame of mind that the end had come.

William Jennings Bryan, who had absolutely taken no part in the proceedings of the day other than to cast his vote with the Nebraska delegation for Woodrow Wilson, was surrounded by many admirers but would say nothing at the time.

Nominations for the vice presidency were in order, but no one had been agreed upon, so it was decided that a recess should be taken until 9 p. m., when the vice president should be named and the platform adopted. The interim was devoted to conferences on both subjects.

of Governor Burke of North Dakota.

The convention suspended the regular order of business—the nomination of a vice presidential candidate—shortly before 11 o'clock to make way for the reading and adoption of the platform.

The three leading candidates on the first ballot for the vice presidency were Marshall, 389; Burke, 306 2-3; Chamberlain, 157; no choice.

On the second ballot the three leading candidates stood, Marshall, 645½; Burke, 387 1-3; Chamberlain, 121½; no choice.

Convention adjourned sine die at 1:56 a. m.

BRYAN PREDICTS MAJORITY OF 2,000,000 VOTES FOR WILSON AT FALL ELECTION

BALTIMORE, July 2.—William J. Bryan, in a statement tonight, said that the nomination of Woodrow Wilson on a Progressive platform meant an overwhelming victory for the Democratic ticket next fall.

Mr. Bryan said:

"I feel sure that the action of the convention thus far will appeal to the country. I had no choice among progressive candidates but from the first included Governor Wilson in every list I had occasion to make. His action in coming out strongly against Mr. Parker for temporary chairman was the turning point in his campaign. The country is progressive. Nearly all of the Democratic party and more than half of the Republican party are progressive.

"The paramount question before this convention was whether we would take sides with the reactionaries and thus encourage the organization of a third party and giving to the third party the hope of defeating the reactionaries divided into two parties. This on the one side, and on the other the nomination of a ticket that would so appeal to the progressive element of the nation as to make a third party improbable.

Predicts 2,000,000 Majority.

"I am satisfied that with Mr. Wilson running for president on the platform which has been prepared there will be comparatively few Progressive Republicans who will not feel justified in supporting the Democratic ticket. If I were to make an estimate tonight I would say that we ought to have not less than 2,000,000 majority of the popular vote and enough of the electoral vote to give us an overwhelming majority in the electoral college.

"The action of the convention in adopting the anti-Morgan-Ryan-Belmont resolution has demonstrated that the Democratic party is not only progressive but is bold enough to throw down the gauntlet to the predatory interests. It is fortunate that Mr. Wilson's nomination was made without the aid of Mr. Murphy. It is no reflection on the many good men in the New York delegation to say this.

"From every standpoint the outlook is hopeful. The only unpleasant thing about a political fight is that success to one aspirant brings disappointment to others.

Emphatic Action Necessary.

"Those who fail ought to find some consolation in the fact that failure is not always a reflection upon the individual, because circumstances exert a larger influence than is sometimes supposed in the determining of a convention choice. Men are only available when they fit only conditions. I decided some two years ago that I did not fit into the conditions as we then saw them, and I was not willing to assume the responsibility of advocating any particular progressive, partly because I preferred to trust the wisdom of the multitude and partly because I felt that a great deal would depend upon the action of the Republican convention. When the Republican convention adjourned it was even more apparent than before that circumstances required some emphatic action on the part of our convention to insure a consolidation of the progressive vote under our banner.

"The incidents of the convention have, in a strange way, emphasized the progressiveness of our party far more than I had expected that progressiveness could be exercised and the convention has decided, with rare unanimity, that Governor Wilson fits into the conditions that the Republican convention and our convention have joined in creating.

"Knowing what the platform is, I feel that it will help him in his fight, and I have no doubt that our convention will proceed to choose a vice presidential candidate who will strengthen the ticket. It is needless to say that I am gratified to see our party raising the banner of progressive Democracy aloft and calling to the progressive forces of the nation to join in restoring the government to the hands of the people that it may be in truth a government of the people, by the people and for the people.

"It has been a long convention, but the results are worth the time. The dawn is here and Progressive Democracy will be the people's pillar of cloud by day."

Mr. Bryan held an informal levee in his rooms this afternoon and many delegates dropped in to congratulate him upon his fight. Telegrams poured in praising him for the campaign he had made in the interest of progressivism.

ROOSEVELT'S CANDIDACY IS NOT AFFECTED BY OUTCOME AT BALTIMORE

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 2.—"I shall, of course, continue to stand for the Progressive nomination," said Colonel Roosevelt tonight, after he heard of the nomination of Woodrow Wilson.

The former president stated his belief that events in the Democratic as well as the Republican convention demonstrated the need of a new party.

The national convention of the new party will be held in Chicago. It was decided today, probably during the first week of August.

This is Colonel Roosevelt's statement:

"I have stated before that the third party movement and my candidacy would not be in any way affected by the outcome at Baltimore. I never go into a fight on a contingent basis. I shall, of course, continue to stand for the Progressive nomination. I have just been going over with Senator Dixon the call which is about to be issued by the provisional committee for the Progressive national convention.

No Hopes of Reform.

"To my mind what has gone on in Baltimore for the past 40 days has shown the utterly irreconcilable nature of the elements within the Democratic party, elements so irreconcilable as to make it hopeless to expect for them any prominent reform movement along constructive lines. It has also shown that any nomination obtained at Baltimore could, after all, be obtained only by the support of men like Mr. Taggart in Indiana, and Mr. Sullivan in Illinois, and the success of the candidate at the polls, without regard to his personality, would be conditioned not only upon the hearty support of Mr. Taggart and Mr. Sullivan and their colleagues and representatives in every other state, from New York to Colorado, but would also be conditioned upon these men succeeding in carrying their several state tickets and in perpetuating themselves in control of the Democratic party.

To Issue Call on Fourth of July.

"Under these conditions I feel that the events at Baltimore like the events at Chicago, prove the absolute need of a new, nation-wide, nonsectional party which shall in good faith stand for the interests of the people as a whole."

While the Democratic convention was nominating Governor Wilson, Colonel Roosevelt and his lieutenants were hard at work making plans for the new party.

The call is virtually ready. It probably will be issued on Thursday, the Fourth of July. Colonel Roosevelt would not discuss the victory of Governor Wilson.

TELLER COUNTY G. O. P. RESPECTS ROOSEVELT

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, July 2.—Teller county Republicans will go clear down the line for the straight state and county tickets, but if Roosevelt decides to run on a third ticket, no effort will be made to interfere with his chances of reaping votes in this section. This was decided at a representative meeting of the Republicans of the county at the Victor court house today.

Roosevelt supporters were greatly in evidence, and it would have been suicidal to attempt to influence the meeting against the former president in favor of Taft. To the contrary, the Taft leaders saw fit to avoid discussion of the presidential question. All were unanimous in agreeing that the Republicans would stick together on the state and county tickets.

Nelson Franklin was chairman of the gathering. Mrs. Polly of Victor was secretary. The convention decided to hold wide-open primaries this fall, and the Republican county central committee will be asked to delegate a committee of 11 to take charge of the primaries, including the naming of the date.

gracefully until the accident occurred, kept the crowds from about the Vanlman villa. The flight was the second that the airship had taken this year. After tinkering all winter on the ship Vaniman took the Akron out for a short flight on Saturday morning June 1. At that time the balloon was nearly wrecked by some of the mechanism going wrong, but it was landed without serious mishap.

Made Longest Flight Last Fall.

The longest flight the balloon made was last fall when it spent the greater part of the day in the air in the vicinity of this city.

At that time the gas in the bag was not sufficient to keep the big ship constantly in the air and it had to make several landings. During the winter Vaniman improved the ship through lessons learned in that flight.

In general appearance the Akron was not unlike the American in which Walter Wellman and Vaniman attempted to cross the Atlantic ocean in October, 1910, but there were many differences in the construction. The gas bag was 30 feet longer than that of the American, but was smaller in diameter.

The dimensions were: Length of bag, 258 feet; diameter, 47 feet. The bag was made of a composition of rubber and was constructed in Ohio. Beneath was the car similar in shape to the American but longer, perhaps 150 feet long. The bottom of the car was composed of a round steel tank two feet in diameter and about 100 feet long. In this tank was stored the gasoline.

The car was connected to the gas bag by steel tubing of light construction. On top of the tank was a platform of two-inch boards and on this rested one 100-horsepower motor, two of 80-horsepower, one 17-horsepower motor, and a small dynamo.

Motor-Driven Propellers.

The 100-horsepower motor was used for the two forward vertical propellers and the other two large motors for the two pairs of propellers. These propellers could be turned from the horizontal to the vertical and were used to raise or lower the ship.

The smaller motor and dynamo were used for electric lighting and to furnish power to the wireless outfit. Some of the supplies of the ship were also stored on this platform. In the forward end of the platform were the steering wheels and gears for controlling the rudder and the stabilizing planes fore and aft.

The sleeping accommodations for the crew consisted of hammocks strung up in the car. The disaster came as a shock to the people of Atlantic City, who had come to know Vaniman very well. For a week the airman had been planning to make another flight and only awaited favorable winds.

Last night conditions appeared satisfactory and he notified the city authorities that he probably would make a flight at sunrise today. At daybreak the conditions were still favorable and the word was given. A hundred policemen and firemen were summoned and sent up to the inlet to assist in getting the balloon out of the immense hangar.

Appeared to Have Perfect Control.

Hundreds of persons who expected the flight saw the Akron come out of the hangar for the last time. The operation was a simple one and the big bag was brought out without difficulty. Once clear of the shed Vaniman jumped into the car where the other four men had already gone and he gave the word to "let go." Instantly the ship rose, slowly at first and swaying from end to end. Then she rose rapidly. Vaniman appeared to have complete control and after circling about over the inlet and the mainland, the ship's nose was pointed out to sea.

An eyewitness of the disaster, told this story of what he saw:

"When about 1,000 feet in the air, I saw a sudden puff of smoke from the forward end of the gas bag. In a minute it exploded.

"To those who have witnessed the many flights of Vaniman, this one seemed at the start more successful than any yet attempted.

"The crew seemed to have better control than ever before. Starting out from the hangar, the ship rose slowly from the ground and passed easily out over the water of the inlet, grazing the mast of the fleet of yachts anchored there.

"Vaniman and his crew were cheered by a number of fishing parties at the inlet about to start out for a day's sport. The whistles of a fleet of motor boats sounded a 'godspeed' to the airship and its crew.

"After getting up about 300 feet, the ship made a complete circle of the waters of Grassy bay. Apparently Vaniman was making a test of the air currents.

"The airship then passed over the Royal Palace hotel," he said, "and then flew over the southern section of the city. Soon after the puff of smoke was seen the men on the airship were seen gathered on one side of the craft. These spectators, however, did not realize that anything had happened until suddenly the huge bag was seen to buckle from the two ends, forming a perfect 'U.' There was no report, but immediately the collapsed bag fell toward the ocean with frightful velocity. The forms of five men could be seen plunging down and over again before they sank in the sea just off the outer bar and not far from a can buoy. From the boardwalk, abreast of the life-saving station, it looked as if the now limp gas bag and its metal framework covered their bodies.

"Men on the boardwalk turned their eyes from the sight and women screamed. One man, who seemed to grasp the situation, made a dash for a hotel to telephone for help. A large launch, on the way to the fishing grounds, blew a whistle to attract the attention of the other boats and in a short time the inlet waters were black with boats rushing to the aid of the men."

Vaniman, because of his genial disposition, had endeared himself to the citizens of Atlantic City, and his untimely end caused universal sorrow here.

To a reporter who recently interviewed him he expressed the fullest confidence in the Akron to "make good." He was keenly aware of the dangerous nature of the gas used for inflating the bag, but he felt that it was safe from explosion as no flame could reach it.

Testing a New Gas.

Vaniman had recently been testing an entirely new material for the gas bag. It is reinforced with wire and Vaniman claimed that with it he could construct a balloon that would neither expand nor contract, thus producing a dirigible that would be absolutely under the control of engines and steering apparatus.

On his last two trips Vaniman dispensed with the services of his wireless operator and had removed the apparatus, thus giving his crew additional room in the working quarters.

That somebody had let too much free gas into the engines and backed up the exhaust, was the theory of Chief Black of the fire department, who was on hand with his men to help in launching the balloon.

"I had no idea there was anything wrong until I suddenly saw the smoke change to flame and saw the entire rear end of the big gas bag go up as though by explosion," he said. "We heard the screams of the men. The sight was awful. The big balloon dipped down by the stern and started toward the earth at a terrific rate. I turned my head away, but the screams of the crowd forced me to turn back, and I saw the balloon collapse and dive down toward the water."

Mrs. Vaniman Praises Husband.

Mrs. Vaniman said of her husband: "He was so very brave," she said, "that I believe he never knew what fear was. I never presumed to urge him not to go up, for I knew it would not influence him. It would be more exact to say that he would not even hear what I said. He was devoted to his work and flight in the air, however. Danger was to him merely an incident. It was a step in the pleasurable science of air navigation which he studied when he was awake and dreamed of when he was asleep.

"I shall never forget the feeling in my heart when he left me at 2 o'clock this morning. I had a forewarning of trouble. I believe it now as true as I can believe anything, and I am not a superstitious woman, either.

"Yes, I saw them fall. I saw one man jump. Something tells me that it was my husband. I saw him spread out in the air, flat, as he fell, and then—oh, I can scarcely speak of it—all grew dark before me. They were so high in the air—it must have been 1,000 feet."

The body of Calvin Vaniman was found and brought ashore. The head was cut and the eyes blown out. A scar over his right eye showed where he had been struck by a piece of the wreckage.

Both legs and his left arm were broken and most of his ribs crushed in. A diver reported that beneath the water's surface he saw the features of a man in the forepart of the car which lies in about 18 feet of water. The mud has made it impossible to identify, but as this portion of the ship was where Vaniman was operating his dirigible, it is believed to be he. The body was covered with the mesh of steel and rubber fabric.

Further back, near the fore engine, a leg and arm could be distinguished, protruding from the wreckage. This is the position assigned to Guests and the body is thought to be his.

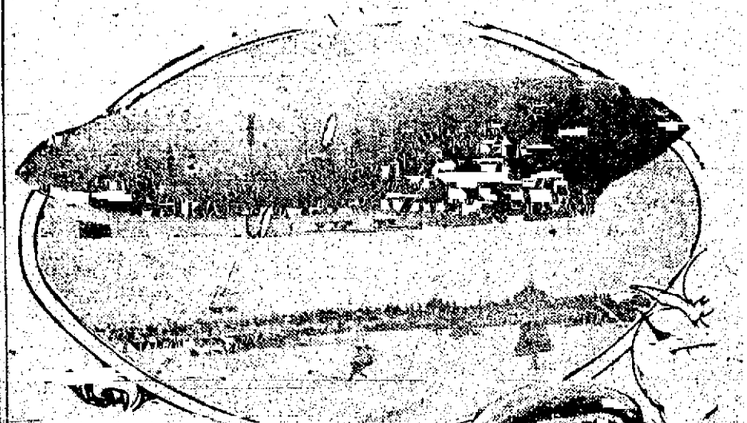
The back of another body could be seen near the center of the understructure, and this is probably the remains of Bourtillion, he being in charge of the engine.

Fully 20,000 persons gathered about the inlet, awaiting news from the wreck. Two hundred boats clustered about in a wide circle near the wreck all morning.

Brother Formerly Lived Here.

The two Vanimans were brothers of Ira T. Vaniman, who lived in Colorado Springs, in 1902-03, at 809 North Wahsatch avenue. His present whereabouts is unknown.

Ill-Fated Dirigible Balloon Akron and Man Who Dreamed of Crossing Atlantic in Her



Melvin Vaniman (lower) and the great dirigible balloon, the Akron, in which the airman and his crew of four met death early yesterday morning. The gas bag exploded when the airship was at a height of 1,000 feet and the men on board were thrown out. Recently, when Vaniman completed the reconstruction of the big dirigible in which he intended to attempt a flight across the Atlantic ocean, he remarked: "She is in splendid shape, and I am strongly tempted to start right out. But the weather conditions will be more favorable later in the season."

were frequent interruptions of applause and noisy demonstrations.

The only display of temper marking the nominating session came from the Missouri delegates. They demanded to know of Senator Bankhead why Mr. Underwood had not withdrawn when Clark appeared to have a chance for the nomination, and accused the Underwood delegates of "faking." Senator Bankhead paid no heed to the questions hurled at him. He said Mr. Underwood desired the success of his party above everything else and would not lend himself to any plan to prevent nomination.

From the moment Senator Bankhead reached the platform the wheels of the convention began to revolve with an energy that meant results.

Senator Stone of Missouri, who had been in consultation with Speaker Clark, climbed to the stage, and when he could make himself heard, released in the name of the speaker all of the delegates who had been pledged to him.

"As for Missouri, however," he added, "she will cast her 36 votes for old Champ Clark to the end."

Foss' Name Also Withdrawn.

Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston followed Stone. The convention was in an almost continuous uproar. The Wilson forces already were celebrating their victory. There was no longer any doubt as to the result.

Mayor Fitzgerald withdrew the name of Governor Foss of Massachusetts from further consideration and declared that the "old Bay state" would fall in line for Woodrow Wilson.

Then a second Fitzgerald was recognized. This was the congressman from Brooklyn. He made a plea for harmony and ended by suggesting that a further roll call be dispensed with and the nomination of Wilson be made by acclamation. New York, he said, was ready to vote for the man the great body of the delegates desired as their nominee.

The faithful Missourians objected to this plan because of their desire to vote a last time for Speaker Clark.

Result Foregone Conclusion.

It was a foregone conclusion what the result would be as the last call of the states began. Alabama, which had started every other call with 24 votes for Underwood, changed to Wilson and state after state followed suit. It was just 3:15 p. m. when the solid 76 votes of Pennsylvania carried Wilson over the winning line, making his total at the time 733 votes.

The stampede did not end until 990 of the 1,088 votes in the convention had been cast for the nominee. Missouri, with her 36, had been joined on the last ballot for Clark by 24 of California's 26 votes; by five delegates from Florida; two from Louisiana; all six from Nevada; four from New Jersey, the home state of Governor Wilson; six from the District of Columbia, and one from Ohio.

This little handful readily joined in the chorus of acclamation when Senator Stone moved that the nomination be made unanimous.

It was 3:35 p. m. when Chairman James officially declared Mr. Wilson the nominee of his party. There was an attempt at another demonstration but the delegates were too tired to keep it up long. Then, too, the local appropriation for a band had run out last Saturday night and there was no inspiring music to help along the enthusiasm. In this respect the nomination was unique. Everyone in the convention hall seemed in a happy frame of mind that the end had come.

William Jennings Bryan, who had absolutely taken no part in the proceedings of the day other than to cast his vote with the Nebraska delegation for Woodrow Wilson, was surrounded by many admirers but would say nothing at the time.

Nominations for the vice presidency were in order, but no one had been agreed upon, so it was decided that a recess should be taken until 9 p. m., when the vice president should be named and the platform adopted. The interim was devoted to conferences on both subjects.

HENNA GROWS IN LOWER EGYPT

From Harper's Weekly.

Everywhere in lower Egypt the henna bush grows. It attains a height of seven feet and bears a multitude of snowy tufts. The virtues of henna are chanted by all mouths and its tawny tinge is seen around the eyes, in the nostrils, and on the hair of eastern women. The henna past is made by rolling the dried leaves and soaking them in liquid drawn from another shrub.

of Governor Burke of North Dakota.

The convention suspended the regular order of business—the nomination of a vice presidential candidate—shortly before 11 o'clock to make way for the reading and adoption of the platform.

The three leading candidates on the first ballot for the vice presidency were Marshall, 389; Burke, 305 2-3; Chamberlain, 155; no choice.

On the second ballot the three leading candidates stood, Marshall, 645½; Burke, 337 1-3; Chamberlain, 121½; no choice.

BRYAN PREDICTS MAJORITY OF 2,000,000 VOTES FOR WILSON AT FALL ELECTION

BALTIMORE, July 2.—William J. Bryan, in a statement tonight, said that the nomination of Woodrow Wilson on a Progressive platform meant an overwhelming victory for the Democratic ticket next fall.

Mr. Bryan said:

"I feel sure that the action of the convention thus far will appeal to the country. I had no choice among progressive candidates but from the first included Governor Wilson in every list I had occasion to make. His action in coming out strongly against Mr. Parker for temporary chairman was the turning point in his campaign. The country is progressive. Nearly all of the Democratic party and more than half of the Republican party are progressive.

"The paramount question before this convention was whether we would take sides with the reactionaries and thus encourage the organization of a third party and giving to the third party the hope of defeating the reactionaries divided into two parties. This on the one side, and on the other, the nomination of a ticket that would so appeal to the progressive element of the nation as to make a third party improbable.

Predicts 2,000,000 Majority.

"I am satisfied that with Mr. Wilson running for president on the platform which has been prepared there will be comparatively few Progressive Republicans who will not feel justified in supporting the Democratic ticket. If I were to make an estimate tonight I would say that we ought to have not less than 2,000,000 majority of the popular vote and enough of the electoral vote to give us an overwhelming majority in the electoral college.

"The action of the convention in adopting the anti-Morgan-Ryan-Belmont resolution has demonstrated that the Democratic party is not only progressive but is bold enough to throw down the gauntlet to the predatory interests. It is fortunate that Mr. Wilson's nomination was made without the aid of Mr. Murphy. It is no reflection on the many good men in the New York delegation to say this.

"From every standpoint the outlook is hopeful. The only unpleasant thing about a political fight is that success to one aspirant brings disappointment to others.

Emphatic Action Necessary.

"Those who fail ought to find some consolation in the fact that failure is not always a reflection upon the individual, because circumstances exert a larger influence than is sometimes supposed in the determining of a convention choice. Men are only available when they fit only conditions. I decided some two years ago that I did not fit into the conditions as we then saw them, and I was not willing to assume the responsibility of advocating any particular progressive, partly because I preferred to trust the wisdom of the multitude and partly because I felt that a great deal would depend upon the action of the Republican convention. When the Republican convention adjourned it was even more apparent than before that circumstances required some emphatic action on the part of our convention to insure a consolidation of the progressive vote under our banner.

"The incidents of the convention have, in a strange way, emphasized the progressiveness of our party far more than I had expected that progressiveness could be exercised and the convention has decided, with rare unanimity, that Governor Wilson fits into the conditions that the Republican convention and our convention have joined in creating.

"Knowing what the platform is, I feel that it will help him in his fight, and I have no doubt that our convention will proceed to choose a vice presidential candidate who will strengthen the ticket. It is needless to say that I am gratified to see our party raising the banner of progressive Democracy aloft and calling to the progressive forces of the nation to join in restoring the government to the hands of the people that it may be in truth a government of the people, by the people and for the people.

"It has been a long convention, but the results are worth the time. The dawn is here and Progressive Democracy will be the people's pillar of cloud by day."

Mr. Bryan held an informal levee in his rooms this afternoon and many delegates dropped in to congratulate him upon his fight. Telegrams poured in praising him for the campaign he had made in the interest of progressiveism.

ROOSEVELT'S CANDIDACY IS NOT AFFECTED BY OUTCOME AT BALTIMORE

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 2.—"I shall, of course, continue to stand for the Progressive nomination," said Colonel Roosevelt tonight, after he heard of the nomination of Woodrow Wilson.

The former president stated his belief that events in the Democratic as well as the Republican convention demonstrated the need of a new party. The national convention of the new party will be held in Chicago, it was decided today, probably during the first week of August.

This is Colonel Roosevelt's statement:

"I have stated before that the third party movement and my candidacy would not be in any way affected by the outcome at Baltimore. I never go into a fight on a continent basis. I shall, of course, continue to stand for the Progressive nomination. I have just been going over with Senator Dixon the call which is about to be issued by the provisional committee for the Progressive national convention.

No Hopes of Reform.

"To my mind what has gone on in Baltimore for the past 10 days has shown the utterly irreconcilable nature of the elements within the Democratic party, elements so irreconcilable as to make it hopeless to expect for them any prominent reform movement along constructive lines. It has also shown that any nomination obtained at Baltimore could, after all, be obtained only by the support of men like Mr. Taggart in Indiana and Mr. Sullivan in Illinois, and the success of the candidate at the polls, without regard to his personality, would be conditioned not only upon the hearty support of Mr. Taggart and Mr. Sullivan and their colleagues and representatives in every other state, from New York to Colorado, but would also be conditioned upon these men succeeding in carrying their several state tickets and in perpetuating themselves in control of the Democratic party.

To Issue Call on Fourth of July.

"Under these conditions I feel that the events at Baltimore like the events at Chicago, prove the absolute need of a new, nation-wide, nonsectional party which shall in good faith stand for the interests of the people as a whole."

While the Democratic convention was nominating Governor Wilson, Colonel Roosevelt and his lieutenants were hard at work making plans for the new party.

The call is virtually ready. It probably will be issued on Thursday, the Fourth of July. Colonel Roosevelt would not discuss the victory of Governor Wilson.

TELLER COUNTY G. O. P. RESPECTS ROOSEVELT

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, July 2.—Teller county Republicans will go clear down the line for the straight state and county tickets, but if Roosevelt decides to run on a third ticket, no effort will be made to interfere with his chances of reaping votes in this section. This was decided at a representative meeting of the Republicans of the county at the Victor court house today.

Roosevelt supporters were greatly in evidence, and it would have been suicidal to attempt to influence the meeting against the former president in favor of Taft. To the contrary, the Taft leaders saw fit to avoid discussion of the presidential question. All were unanimous in agreeing that the Republicans would stick together on the state and county tickets.

Nelson Franklin was chairman of the gathering. Mrs. Polly of Victor was secretary. The convention decided to hold wide-open primaries this fall, and the Republican county central committee will be asked to delegate a committee of 11 to take charge of the primaries, including the naming of the date.

gracefully until the accident occurred, kept the crowds from about the Vaniman villa. The flight was the second that the airship had taken this year. After tinkering all winter on the ship Vaniman took the Akron out for a short flight on Saturday morning June 1. At that time the balloon was nearly wrecked by some of the mechanism going wrong, but it was landed without serious mishap.

Made Longest Flight Last Fall.

The longest flight the balloon made was last fall when it spent the greater part of the day in the air in the vicinity of this city.

At that time the gas in the bag was not sufficient to keep the big ship constantly in the air and it had to make several landings. During the winter Vaniman improved the ship through lessons learned in that flight.

In general appearance the Akron was not unlike the American in which Walter Wellman and Vaniman attempted to cross the Atlantic ocean in October, 1910, but there were many differences in the construction. The gas bag was 30 feet longer than that of the American, but was smaller in diameter.

The dimensions were: Length of bag, 258 feet; diameter, 47 feet. The bag was made of a composition of rubber and was constructed in Ohio. Beneath was the car similar in shape to the American but longer, perhaps 150 feet long. The bottom of the car was composed of a round steel tank two feet in diameter and about 100 feet long; in this tank was stored the gasoline.

The car was connected to the gas bag by steel tubing of light construction. On top of the tank was a platform of two-inch boards and on this rested one 100-horsepower motor, two of 80-horsepower, one 17-horsepower motor and a small dynamo.

Motor Driven Propellers.

The 100-horsepower motor was used for the two forward vertical propellers and the other two large motors for the two pairs of propellers. These propellers could be turned from the horizontal to the vertical and were used to raise or lower the ship.

The smaller motor and dynamo were used for electric lighting and to furnish power to the wireless outfit. Some of the supplies of the ship were also stored on this platform. In the forward end of the platform were the steering wheels and gears for controlling the rudder and the stabilizing planes fore and aft.

The sleeping accommodations for the crew consisted of hammocks string up in the car. The disaster came as a shock to the people of Atlantic City who had come to know Vaniman very well. For a week the airman had been planning to make another flight and only awaited favorable winds.

Last night conditions appeared satisfactory and he notified the city authorities that he probably would make a flight at sunrise today. At daybreak the conditions were still favorable and the word was given. A hundred policemen and firemen were summoned and sent up to the inlet to assist in getting the balloon out of the immense hangar.

Appeared to Have Perfect Control.

Hundreds of persons who expected the flight saw the Akron come out of the hangar for the last time. The operation was a simple one and the big bag was brought out without difficulty. Once clear of the shed Vaniman jumped into the car where the other four men had already gone and he gave the word to "let go." Instantly the ship rose, slowly at first and swaying from end to end. Then she rose rapidly. Vaniman appeared to have complete control and after circling about over the inlet and the mainland, the ship's nose was pointed out to sea.

An eyewitness of the disaster, told this story of what he saw:

"When about 1,000 feet in the air, I saw a sudden puff of smoke from the forward end of the gas bag. In a minute it exploded.

"To those who have witnessed the many flights of Vaniman, this one seemed at the start more successful than any yet attempted.

"The crew seemed to have better control than ever before. Starting out from the hangar, the ship rose slowly from the ground and passed easily out over the water of the inlet, grazing the masts of the fleet of yachts anchored there.

"Vaniman and his crew were cheered by a number of fishing parties at the inlet about to start out for a day's sport. The whistles of a fleet of motor boats sounded a 'godspeed' to the airship and its crew.

"After getting up about 300 feet, the ship made a complete circle of the waters of Grassy bay. Apparently Vaniman was making a test of the air currents.

Ill-Fated Dirigible Balloon Akron and Man Who Dreamed of Crossing Atlantic in Her

Melvin Vaniman (lower), and the great dirigible balloon, the Akron, in which the airman and his crew of four met death early yesterday morning. The gas bag exploded when the airship was at a heighth of 1,000 feet, and the men on board were thrown out. Recently, when Vaniman completed the reconstruction of the 1911 dirigible in which he intended to attempt a flight across the Atlantic ocean, he remarked: "She is in splendid shape, and I am strongly tempted to start right out. But the weather conditions will be more favorable later in the season."

"The airship then passed over the Royal Palace hotel," he said, "and then flew over the southern section of the city. Soon after the puff of smoke was seen the men on the airship were seen gathered on one side of the craft. These spectators, however, did not realize that anything had happened until suddenly the huge bag was seen to buckle from the two ends, forming a perfect 'U.' There was no report, but immediately the collapsed bag fell toward the ocean with frightful velocity. The forms of five men could be seen plunging down and over again before they sank in the sea just off the outer bar and not far from a can buoy. From the boardwalk, abreast of the life-saving station, it looked as if the now limp gas bag and its metal framework covered their bodies.

Men on the boardwalk turned their eyes from the sight and women screamed. One man, who seemed to grasp the situation, made a dash for a hotel to telephone for help. A large launch, on the way to the fishing grounds, blew a whistle to attract the attention of the other boats and in a short time the inlet waters were black with boats rushing to the aid of the men."

Vaniman, because of his genial disposition, had endeared himself to the citizens of Atlantic City, and his untimely end caused universal sorrow here.

To a reporter who recently interviewed him he expressed the fullest confidence in the Akron to "make good." He was keenly aware of the dangerous nature of the gas used for inflating the bag but he felt that it was safe from explosion as no flame could reach it.

Testing a New Gas.

Vaniman had recently been testing an entirely new material for the gas bag. It is reinforced with wire and Vaniman claimed that with it he could construct a balloon that would neither expand nor contract, thus producing a dirigible that would be absolutely under the control of engines and steering apparatus.

On his last two trips Vaniman dispensed with the services of his wireless operator and had removed the apparatus, thus giving his crew additional room in the working quarters.

That somebody had let too much free gas into the engines and backed up the exhaust, was the theory of Chief Black of the fire department, who was on hand with his men to help in launching the balloon.

"I had no idea there was anything wrong until I suddenly saw the smoke change to flame and saw the entire rear end of the big gas bag go up as though by explosion," he said. "We heard the screams of the men. The sight was awful. The big balloon dipped down by the stern and started toward the earth at a terrific rate. I turned my head away, but the screams of the crowd forced me to turn back, and I saw the balloon collapse and dive down toward the water."

Mrs. Vaniman Praises Husband.

Mrs. Vaniman said of her husband: "He was so very brave—she said, that I believe he never knew what fear was. I never presumed to urge him not to go up, for I knew it would not influence him. It would be more exact to say that he would not even hear what I said. He was devoted to his work and flight in the air, however. Danger was to him merely an incident. It was a step in the pleasurable science of air navigation which he studied when he was awake and dreamed of when he was asleep.

"I shall never forget the feeling in my heart when he left me at 2 o'clock this morning. I had a forewarning of trouble. I believe it now as true as I can believe anything, and I am not a superstitious woman, either.

"Yes, I saw them fall. I saw one man jump. Something tells me that it was my husband. I saw him spread out in the air, flat, as he fell, and then—oh, I can scarcely speak of it—all grew dark before me. They were so high in the air—it must have been 1,000 feet."

The body of Calvin Vaniman was found and brought ashore. The head was cut and the eyes blown out. A scap over his right eye showed where he had been struck by a piece of the wreckage.

Both legs and his left arm were broken and most of his ribs crushed in. A diver reported that beneath the water's surface he saw the features of a man in the forepart of the car which lies in about 18 feet of water. The mud has made it impossible to identify, but as this portion of the ship was where Vaniman was operating his dirigible, it is believed to be he. The body was covered with the mesh of steel and rubber fabric.

Further back, near the fore engine, a leg and arm could be distinguished, protruding from the wreckage. This is the position assigned to Guests and the body is thought to be his.

The back of another body could be seen near the center of the understructure, and this is probably the remains of Bourtillion, he being in charge of the engine.

Fully 20,000 persons gathered about the inlet, awaiting news from the wreck. Two hundred boats clustered about in a wide circle near the wreck all morning.

Brother Formerly Lived Here.

The two Vanimans were brothers of Ira T. Vaniman, who lived in Colorado Springs in 1902-03, at 809 North Walsenburg avenue. His present whereabouts is unknown.

DEMOCRATS PLEDGE WILSON TO ONE TERM OF INDEFINITE LENGTH

Convention Adopts Platform Prepared by Bryan Immediately After It Is Read--Declares Against Corporations Aiding Campaigns

BALTIMORE, June 2.—A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania, Wilson leader, proposed at 10:50 p. m. that the platform be taken up before the balloting of the vice presidential nominations was begun.

The motion to postpone further consideration of the vice presidency and take up the platform carried, and Senator Kern of Indiana read the document.

The reading of the platform was concluded at 11:45 o'clock, and Senator Kern immediately moved its adoption, which was done by viva voce vote.

The platform, in full, follows:

We, the representatives of the Democratic party of the United States in national committee assembled, reaffirm our devotion to the principles of Democratic government formulated by Thomas Jefferson and enforced by a long and illustrious line of Democratic presidents.

Tariff Reform.

We declare it to be a fundamental principle of the Democratic party that the federal government under the constitution has no right or power to impose or collect tariff duties, except for the purpose of revenue, and we demand that the collection of such taxes shall be limited to the necessities of government honestly and economically administered.

The high Republican tariff is the principal cause of the unequal distribution of wealth; it is a system of taxation which makes the rich richer and the poor poorer; under its operations the American farmer and laboring man are the chief sufferers; it raised the cost of the necessaries of life to them, but does not protect their product or wage. The farmer sells largely in free markets and buys almost entirely in the protected markets. In the most highly protected industries such as cotton and wool, steel and iron the wages of the laborers are the lowest paid in any of our industries. We denounce the Republican pretense on that subject and assert that American wages are established by competitive conditions and not by the tariff.

We favor the immediate downward revision of the existing high, and in many cases, prohibitive tariff duties, insisting that material reductions be speedily made upon the necessaries of life. Articles entering into competition with the trust controlled products and articles of American manufacture which are sold abroad more cheaply than at home, should be put upon the free list.

We recognize that our system of tariff taxation is intimately connected with the business of the country and we favor the ultimate attainment of the principles we advocate by legislation that will not injure or destroy legitimate industry.

We denounce the action of President Taft in vetoing the bills to reduce the tariff in the cotton, woolen, metals and chemicals schedules and the farmers' free list bill, all of which were designed to give immediate relief to the masses from the exactions of the trusts.

The Republican party, while promising tariff revision, has shown by its tariff legislation, that such revision is not to be in the people's interest and having been faithless to its pledges of 1908, it should no longer enjoy the confidence of the nation. We appeal to the American people to support us in our demand for a tariff for revenue only.

High Cost of Living.

The high cost of living is a serious problem in every American home. The Republican party, in its platform attempts to escape from responsibility for present conditions by denying that they are due to a protective tariff. We take issue with them on this subject and charge that excessive prices result in a large measure from the high tariff laws enacted and maintained by the Republican party and from trusts and commercial conspiracies fostered and encouraged by such laws.

Antitrust Law.

A private monopoly is indefensible and intolerable. We therefore favor the vigorous enforcement of the criminal as well as the civil law against trust and trust officials, and demand enactment of such additional legislation as may be necessary to make it impossible for a private monopoly to exist in the United States. We favor the declaration by law of the conditions upon which corporations shall be permitted to engage in interstate trade, including, among others, the prevention of holding companies, of interlocking directors, of stock watering, discrimination in price, control by any corporation of so large a proportion of any industry as to make it a menace.

We condemn the action of the Republican administration in compromising with the Standard Oil company and the Tobacco trust and its failure to invoke the criminal provision of the antitrust law against the officers of these corporations after the court declared that from the undisputed facts in the record they had violated the criminal provisions of the law. We regret that the Sherman antitrust law has received a judicial construction depriving it of much of its efficacy and we favor the enactment of legislation which will restore the statute the strength of which it has been deprived by such interpretation.

Rights of the States.

Believing that the most efficient results under our system of government are to be attained by the full exercise by the states of their reserved sovereign powers, we denounce as usurpation the efforts of our opponents to deprive the states of any of the rights reserved to them, and to enlarge and magnify by indirection the powers of the federal government.

We insist upon the full exercise of all the powers of the government, both state and national, to protect the people from injustice at the hands of those who seek to make the government a private asset in business. There is no twilight zone between the nation and the state in which exploiting interests can take refuge from both. It is as necessary that the federal government shall exercise the powers reserved to them, but we insist that federal remedies for the regulation of interstate commerce and for the prevention of private monopoly shall be added to and not substituted for state remedies.

The party then congratulates the country upon the reform triumphs of the federal income tax and direct election of United States senators, and urges all to rally to their adoption. Gratification is expressed at the unanimous sentiment in favor of publicity of elections of campaign contributions, and the house of representatives is commended for extending the doctrine to presidential appointments, ownership of newspapers and expenditures for candidates for presidential nominations. In justification for the last the party points to the "enormous" use of money in behalf of the president, and his predecessor in the recent Republican presidential contest.

Presidential Primaries.

The movement towards more popular government should be promoted through legislation in each state which will permit the acceptance of the preference of the electors for national candidates at presidential primaries.

We direct that the national committee incorporate in the call for the next nominating convention a requirement that all expressions of preference for presidential candidates shall be given and the selection of delegates and alternates made through a primary election conducted by the party organization in each state where such expression and election are not provided for by state law. Committeemen who are hereafter to constitute the membership of the Democratic national committee, and whose election is not provided for by law, shall be chosen in each state at such primary elections, and the service and authority of committeemen, however chosen, shall begin immediately upon the receipt of their credentials respectively.

Campaign Contributions.

We pledge the Democratic party to the enactment of a law prohibiting any corporation from contributing to a campaign fund, and any individual from contributing any amount above a reasonable maximum.

Term of President.

We favor a single presidential term, and to that end urge the adoption of an amendment to the constitution, making the president of the United States ineligible for reelection, and we pledge the candidate of this convention to this principle.

Democratic Congress.

At this time, when the Republican party, after a generation of unlimited power in its control of the federal government, is rent into factions, it is opportune to point to the record of accomplishments of the Democratic house of representatives in the Sixty-second congress. We indorse its action and we challenge comparison of its record with that of any congress which has been controlled by our opponents.

We call the attention of the patriotic citizens of our country to its record of efficiency, economy and constructive legislation.

The platform then enumerates many of the bills initiated and passed by the house. Regarding the Democratic plans for national defense it says:

We approve the measure reported by the Democratic leaders in the house of representatives for the creation of a council of national defense which will determine a definite naval program with a view to increased efficiency and economy. The party that proclaimed and has always enforced the Monroe doctrine, and which is sponsor for the new navy, will continue faithfully to observe the constitutional requirements to provide and maintain an adequate and well proportioned navy sufficient to defend American policies, protect our citizens and uphold the honor and dignity of the nation.

Republican Extravagance.

We denounce the profligate waste of the money wrung from the people by oppressive taxation through the lavish appropriations of recent Republican congresses, which have kept taxes high and reduced the purchasing power of the people's toil. We demand a return to that simplicity and economy which befits a democratic government, and a reduction in the number of useless offices, the salaries of which drain the substance of the people.

Railroads, Express Companies, Telegraph and Telephone Lines.

We favor the efficient supervision and rate regulation of railroads, express companies, telegraph and telephone lines engaged in interstate commerce. To this end we recommend the valuation of railroads, express companies, telegraph and telephone lines by the interstate commerce commission, such valuation to take into consideration the physical value of the property, the original cost, the cost of reproduction and any element of value that will render the valuation fair and just.

We favor such legislation as will effectually prohibit the railroads, express, telegraph and telephone companies from engaging in business which brings them into competition with their shippers or patrons; also legislation preventing the over-issue of stocks and bonds by interstate railroads, express companies, telegraph and telephone lines; and legislation which will assure such reduction in transportation rates as conditions will permit, care being taken to avoid reduction that would compel a reduction of wages, prevent adequate service or do injustice to legitimate investments.

Banking Legislation.

We oppose the so-called Aldrich bill, or the establishment of a central bank, and we believe the people of the country will be largely freed from panics and consequent employment and business depression by such a systematic revision of our banking laws as will render temporary relief in localities where such relief is needed, with protection from control or domination by what is known as the money trust.

Banks exist for the accommodation of the public and not for the control of business. All legislation on the subject of banking and currency should have for its purpose the securing of these accommodations on terms of absolute security to the public and of complete protection from the misuse of the power that wealth gives to those who possess it.

We condemn the present methods of depositing government funds in a few favored banks, largely situated in or controlled by Wall street, in return for political favors, and we pledge our party to provide by law for their deposit by competitive bidding among the banking institutions of the country.

Rural Credits.

Of equal importance with the question of currency reform is the question of rural credits or agricultural finance. Therefore we recommend that an investigation of agricultural credit societies in foreign countries be made, so that it may be ascertained whether a system of rural credits may be devised suitable to conditions in the United States; and we also favor legislation permitting national banks to loan a reasonable proportion of their funds on real estate security.

We recognize the value of vocational education and urge federal appropriations for such training and extension teaching in agriculture in cooperation with the several states.

Waterways.

We renew the declaration in our last platform relating to the conservation of our national resources and the development of our waterways. The present devastation of the lower Mississippi valley accentuates the movement for the regulation of river flow. We hold that the control of the Mississippi river is a national problem.

To maintain an adequate depth of water the entire year and thereby encourage water transportation is a consummation worthy of legislative attention and an issue national in its character.

We favor the cooperation of the United States and the respective states in plans for the comprehensive treatment of all waterways with a view of coordinating plans for channel improvement, with plans for drainage of swamp and overflowed lands, and to this end we favor the appropriation by the federal government of sufficient funds to develop plans for draining such lands and to supervise the work of construction.

Postroads.

We favor national aid to state and local authorities in the construction and maintenance of postroads.

RIGHTS OF LABOR—We repeat our declarations of the platform of 1908. The platform says, and then reiterates the party's belief in the courts as a bulwark of liberty. Resentment is expressed toward the Republican party for raising "false issues respecting the judiciary."

If judicial processes may be abused, the document continues, we should guard them against abuse.

Experience has proved the necessity of a modification of the present law relating to injunction and we reiterate the pledges of our platforms of 1896 and 1904 in favor of a measure which passed the United States senate in 1896, relating to contempt in federal court and providing for trial by jury in cases of indirect contempt.

Questions of judicial practices have arisen, especially in connection with industrial disputes. We believe that the parties to all judicial proceedings should be treated with rigid impartiality and that injunctions should not be issued in any case in which an injunction would not issue if no industrial dispute were involved.

The expanding organization of industry makes it essential that there should be no abridgement of the right of the wage earners and producers to organize for the protection of wages and the improvement of labor conditions to the end that such labor organizations and their members should not be regarded as illegal combinations in restraint of trade.

We pledge the Democratic party to the enactment of a law creating a department of labor represented separately in the president's cabinet in which department shall be included the subject of mines and mining.

We pledge the Democratic party, so far as the federal jurisdiction extends, to an employes' compensation law.

Conservation.

We believe in the conservation and the development for the use of all people of the natural resources of the country. Our forests, our sources of water supply, our arable and our mineral lands, and our navigable streams, and all the other material resources with which our country has been so lavishly endowed, constitute the foundation of our national wealth. Such additional legislation as may be necessary to prevent their being wasted or absorbed by special or privileged interests, should be enacted and the policy of their conservation should be rigidly adhered to.

The platform here declares against unnecessary withdrawal of land from public sale and urges the broadest liberality toward the settlers.

Immediate action to make the coal deposits of Alaska available without monopolistic control is urged.

Extension of the work of the bureau of mines is pledged as well as a systematic effort to improve conditions of trade in farm products, both for consumers and producers. Legislation suppressing gambling in agricultural products is favored.

The platform next urges the fostering of the merchant marine, the speedy enactment of laws for greater security of life at sea and the repeal of laws permitting the imprisonment of deserting seamen.

Favor is expressed of exempting American coastwise trade vessels from toll at the Panama canal and also of legislation forbidding use of the Panama canal to ships owned or controlled by railroads carriers engaged in transportation competitive with the canal.

Declarations for the betterment of pure food and public health measures are reaffirmed, it is declared the civil service law "should be honestly and rigidly enforced." The right of petition by employes to congress for redress of grievance is recognized.

The platform then takes up law reform and says:

We recognize the urgent need of reform in the administration of civil and criminal law in the United States and we recommend the enactment of such legislation and the promotion of such measures as will rid the present legal system of the delays, expense and uncertainties incident to the system as now administered.

The thrice expressed policy of the party against the colonial exploitation of the Philippines is reaffirmed.

Arizona and New Mexico are welcomed to the sisterhood of states and congratulated upon the beginning of auspicious careers.

Full territorial privileges are demanded for the people of Alaska.

The Democrats of house and senate are commended for compelling the abrogation of the Russian treaty of 1832 and the party is pledged anew to preserve the rights of American citizenship "at home and abroad."

A parcel post or postal express and the extension of rural delivery are favored. Interest in the Panama canal is encouraged.

The adoption of state laws for protection of the national uniform is commended.

Generous pensions are urged.

Upon "rule of the people" the platform says:

We call attention to the fact that the Democratic party's demand for a return to the rule of the people expressed in the national platform four years ago has now become the accepted doctrine of a large majority of the electors. We again remind the country that only by a larger exercise of the reserved power of the people can they protect themselves from the misuse of delegated power and the usurpation of governmental instrumentality by special interest. For this reason the national convention insisted on the overthrow of Cannonism and the inauguration of a system by which United States senators could be elected by direct vote. The Democratic party offers itself to the country as an agency through which the complete overthrow and extirpation of corruption, fraud and machine rule in American politics can be effected.

Conclusion.

Our platform is one of principles which we believe to be essential to our national welfare. Our pledges are made to be kept when in office as well as relied upon during the campaign, and we invite the cooperation of all citizens, regardless of party who believe in maintaining unimpaired the institutions and traditions of our country.

Taft, Roosevelt and Deil in Race, Says Colonel Watterson

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 2.—Col. Henry Watterson will say in the Courier-Journal tomorrow:

"In a contest between three tickets headed, respectively, by Taft, Roosevelt and the devil, the Courier-Journal, being a daily newspaper and unable to take to the woods, perforce must be obliged to support his satanic majesty.

"The way the result of the Democratic convention has been reached puts in doubt an outlook which a week ago was straight ahead and as sure for the Democrats as any event could be.

"The play of the Roosevelt progressives will be to carry states enough to throw the election into the house. This is a menace and may prove a handicap. However, let all good Democrats pray for the best. The Courier-Journal approves at least the platform and will support the ticket."

WOMAN FORGETS CRUELTY AND REMARRIES SICK MAN

DENVER, July 2.—The grim specter death stood by yesterday as the best man at a wedding in a little white walled room in a tent colony out at 4636 Umatilla street where Gene Garrett Staley, a printer, 35 years old, lay dying.

Propped up by pillows, his face flushed and tears blinding his eyes, Staley gasped out the words of the marriage service which would give him back the wife who a year ago divorced him. The Rev. S. E. Taylor halted frequently as a spasm of coughing seized the dying man.

Holding his former wife's hand tightly in his, Staley bravely continued until he came to the words "until death do us part." Then he dropped back exhausted and murmured the words faintly from the supporting pillows.

Back to the wedding service there is a story of love and devotion on the part of a woman that is rarely surpassed.

A year ago Nora A. Staley obtained a divorce from the man she again married yesterday. Cruelty was her plea. Twice she testified he had threatened to kill her while under the influence of liquor. After she had obtained her decree she went to work in a boarding house. Besides herself there was an aged mother, two sisters and a little niece to care for. Then six months ago her former husband, worn out by dissipation, crawled away to an obscure little room to die. His divorced wife found him and had him removed to a cottage in Berkeley just around the corner of West Forty-sixth avenue from the home of her mother at 4654 Tennyson street. Every minute she could spare from her work she spent with the man who had often been unkind to her.

For weeks past the plea that she remarry him—give him another chance—has been constantly on Staley's lips. Yesterday she consented. She had him removed to a private sanatorium where he could be given better care and went for the marriage license. She telephoned for the minister and with two patients as witnesses went through the ceremony.

"I'll fool them yet," he said. "I feel better. I'll get well. I'll make it up to Nora what she has suffered for me. It was all my fault. She never was to blame."

Dispatch-Carrying Contest Tomorrow by the Boy Scouts

Tomorrow afternoon a dispatch-bearing contest will be held between Troop No. 4 of the North End Boy Scouts and troop No. 1 of the Boys' club with a watch given by the Johnson Jewelry company for a prize. The rules of the contest are as follows:

The Rules

Limits: North to Jackson street, east to Wahsatch avenue, south to Costilla street, west to Cascade avenue.

The goal will be the flag pole on Colorado college campus. No scout will be allowed within one block of the pole until the messengers of one of them shall have passed within the circle of that radius.

All scouts must appear in full uniform. If same be owned, or shall wear a ribbon on the left shoulder—blue for Troop 3 and red for Troop 4. Either messenger may disguise himself as he sees fit, except that he cannot dress in feminine attire. The message must at all times be pinned on the front of the hat in plain sight, and the hat must be kept on the head.

If neither messenger reaches the pole without being captured, the prize will be awarded to the scout who first tags the messenger of the opposite side. Upon being tagged the messenger must surrender the message and the returning scout will mark the time of capture on same and deliver immediately to the person in charge at the pole. Take care to have all watches set to correspond with the time of the one in charge at pole before the start of the game.

All contestants will assemble at the pole prior to 2 p. m., except the messengers who will start from the above mentioned north and south limits precisely at 2 p. m.

Both messengers must travel solely on foot and must reach the pole before 4 p. m. unless captured. If one capture is reported before the other troops messenger reports or is captured, the scout sign meaning I have gone home, will be marked on the ground at the base of the flagpole. This sign will long and unnecessary waiting after the contest has been decided.

No roughness will be allowed, as the messenger must immediately surrender his message as soon as he is tagged.

ACT ON BILL SOON

It is expected now that the bill will be acted on definitely within the next week or two.

Grandmothers Used Sage Tea

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made a sage tea and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair and are fast following suit.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary sage tea made by our grandmothers.

The growth and beauty of the hair depends on a healthy condition of the scalp. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy quickly kills the dandruff germs which lead to the shaft of its life color and lustre, makes the scalp clean and healthy, gives the hair strength and beauty and makes it grow. Get a bottle of your druggist today. He will give you money back if you are not satisfied after a fair trial.

Shelden Names Election Judges

County Clerk Shelden yesterday selected the judges of election at the primary and general election in Colorado Springs from the lists submitted by County Chairman F. E. Schreiber, Republican, and County Chairman W. J. Christopher, Democrat. The chairmen agreed that the Republicans should have two of the three judges in the odd numbered precincts and the Democrats the same proportion in the even numbered precincts. Judges in the holdover precincts held over from 1910 to serve in the primaries only. About October 1 the county commissioners will appoint new judges in the outlying precincts to serve for the general election in November. The list of the county clerk follows:

MANITOU-STRATTON PARK STEAM ROAD IS PROPOSED

Frank L. Dana of Houston, Tex., representing a number of Texas and eastern capitalists who are contemplating building the Manitou & Stratton Park Scenic railway, addressed the Manitou town council last night in regard to the proposition. The board tabled the reservoir bid question to take it up at the next meeting. The only bid that is to receive their consideration is the one of James J. Cook & Co. of Denver. Their bid is between $47,000 and $48,000.

Mr. Dana in addressing the board in regard to advertising for a franchise and right-of-way within Manitou's corporate limits gave a brief summary of the plans of the company which expects to spend more than $100,000 in putting in operation and equipping the nine-mile scenic line which has already been surveyed between Manitou and Stratton park. The line, as described by Mr. Dana will bristle with new features. It will be built on a guage of 22 inches and the cars will hold 12 passengers each and the engines will be able to haul 10 cars each. The roadway will pass through five short tunnels. It is claimed that actual construction will begin this fall, if all preliminary arrangements are made successfully.

REMARKABLE SHOWING BY EL PASO COMPANY

The quarterly report of the El Paso Consolidated Gold Mining company, issued by President A. L. Burris shows a total of $230,126.43 worth of ore produced during the last three months, of which $158,901.40 was on company account, and $71,825.03 on lessee account.

Even after the payment of the dividend of June 30 amounting to $24,500 and bringing the total dividends up to $1,548,295 the company has about $125,000 cash resources including the ore in transit.

President Burris repeats his belief that in the extraction of nearly $300,000,000 in gold Cripple Creek has been but scratched, and he cites recent excellent strikes in the El Paso. At 700 feet the fifth level the company is mining $20 ore on a shoot 1,500 feet long and averaging three feet wide, a phenomenal condition. Every indication of such grade ore at the lowest levels is apparent and he thinks the lower workings will make a distinct increase in the production of the company from the upper levels.

Myron Stratton Home Corporation Worth $6,448,368

Auditor Makes Report

The report of H. H. Miles, who audited the accounts of the Stratton Home corporation for the year 1911, was given out for publication yesterday by the home trustees. It shows assets for the year value at $6,448,368.98, compared with $6,422,118.60 in 1910, and a cash surplus of $316,811.79 in 1911, as against $189,804.79 the year preceding. According to the report the total receipts for 1911 were $385,050.01, and the disbursements $228,576.80, leaving a cash balance of $39,822.98. The report covers an audit of the following all controlled by the Stratton Home corporation:

The executors of the estate of W. S. Stratton, trustees of the Free, the International, Bank, Manitou and Colorado Springs and Interurban Railway company, Stratton Cripple Creek Mining and Development company, Arcadia Consolidated Mining company, Granite Hill M. and M. company, Mayflower Gold Mining company, Rhode Island M. and M. company, Sacramento M. and M. company, Stratton Gold Mining company and the Zenobia Gold Mining company.

No dividends were paid by the Colorado Springs and Interurban Railway company in 1911 due to the expense falling upon the company by reason of street paving and other improvements. The report states that the Broadmoor hotel and casino had a net profit in 1910 and that the 1911 season was as good as could be expected under the circumstances. There was no receivership covering an audit of the Brown Palace hotel, Denver, that work having been done there. The report contains the following statement from the auditor:

"From an examination of the different vouchers I am fully satisfied as before that due care and diligence is exercised in the purchase of supplies and in the disbursement of all moneys of the Myron Stratton Home corporation as well as the different controlled companies heretofore mentioned."

Watch for Gazette Balloons and Get Fourth July Prize

Here's a chance for the hustling and wideawake boys and girls of Colorado Springs to win a Fourth of July prize.

Tonight about 8 o'clock The Gazette will send up five big Fourth of July balloons, from The Gazette building, each one with a tag fastened to it. These tags, when brought to The Gazette office any time before July 10, will be received for the following prizes:

1. $5 in cash.
2. $2.50 in cash.
3. Forty bunches of fireworks.
4. One large American flag.
5. One 5 pound box of chocolates.

There will be a mark on each tag, which will indicate to the finder the prize he or she has won.

And so it's up to the sharp-eyed little folks to be on the lookout about 8 o'clock, when the big balloons go up from The Gazette office. Watch the direction they take, and the spot where they come down. Then get out early tomorrow morning, and bring the tag you find to The Gazette office.

Every balloon carries a prize winning tag, and you are sure to be well repaid for your trouble.

DEMO. ASSEMBLY, SECOND DISTRICT, PUEBLO, AUG. 7

The Democratic assembly of the Second Congressional district will be held in Pueblo August 7 at 10 a. m., and candidates for the nomination of congressmen, to be voted on at the primaries to follow, will be named. Of the total of 581 delegates, El Paso county will have 41.

SEEK NEW ARCHITECT

The trustees of the Myron Stratton Home corporation will take steps within a few days to secure an architect to finish the plans for the home as it is practically certain that George Edward Barton's present condition forbids his finishing the work within any stated time. Mr. Barton is still in poor health at his home near Boston, and word received by the Stratton trustees this week places a wet blanket on the hopes that he would soon be able to return and take up the work which he had started so brilliantly.

Dr. D. H. Rice, one of the trustees, said last night that it will be necessary to secure another architect, and that the work will be pushed with all possible speed, to make up for lost time.

Ramsey, officiated in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends of the young couple. The music was a feature, beginning about six o'clock and continuing until the entrance of the bridal procession half an hour later.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father, who gave her in marriage. Miss Margaret Vesta Tucker, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, while Miss Helen Kirkwood, niece of the groom, was the bridesmaid, and Samuel W. Kittleman was best man.

Also in the bridal procession was a bevy of young girls, Sunday school pupils of the bride, Winona Rundquist, Myrtle Cunningham, Margaret Kirton, Eleanor Bartlett, Maida Allen and Harriet Aylard. Preceding the ushers were Robert Tucker, brother of the bride, and Arthur Kirkwood, nephew of the groom. The ushers were Donald F. Tucker, brother of the bride, Carl R. Work of Local League Is Told in Civic Magazine

The June number of the American City magazine contains an article written by Mrs. William G. Sturgis of this city, on the work of the Civic league in Colorado Springs and its intimate acquaintance with the city council proceedings, at whose meetings the lady members of the league are granted a desk. The story is illustrated with a halftone of the city hall here, and describes the great activity and interest of the members of the league. It is a valuable advertisement for the Springs government. A copy of the magazine is on file in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

DEMOCRATS PLEDGE WILSON TO ONE TERM OF INDEFINITE LENGTH

Convention Adopts Platform Prepared by Bryan Immediately After It Is Read--Declares Against Corporations Aiding Campaigns

BALTIMORE, June 2.—A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania, Wilson leader, proposed at 10:50 p. m. that the platform be taken up before the balloting of the vice presidential nominations was begun.

The motion to postpone further consideration of the vice presidency and take up the platform carried, and Senator Kern of Indiana read the document.

The reading of the platform was concluded at 11:45 o'clock, and Senator Kern immediately moved its adoption, which was done by viva voce vote.

The platform in full follows:

We, the representatives of the Democratic party of the United States in national committee assembled, reaffirm our devotion to the principles of Democratic government formulated by Thomas Jefferson and enforced by a long and illustrious line of Democratic presidents.

Tariff Reform.

We declare it to be a fundamental principle of the Democratic party that the federal government under the constitution has no right or power to impose or collect tariff duties, except for the purpose of revenue, and we demand that the collection of such taxes shall be limited to the necessities of government honestly and economically administered.

The high Republican tariff is the principal cause of the unequal distribution of wealth; it is a system of taxation which makes the rich richer and the poor poorer; under its operations the American farmer and laboring man are the chief sufferers; it raised the cost of the necessaries of life to them, but does not protect their product or wage. The farmer sells largely in free markets and buys almost entirely in th protected markets. In the most highly protected industries such as cotton and wool, steel and iron the wages of the laborers are the lowest paid in any of our industries. We denounce the Republican pretense on that subject and assert that American wages are established by competitive conditions and not by the tariff.

We favor the immediate downward revision of the existing high, and in many cases, prohibitive tariff dues, insisting that material reductions be speedily made upon the necessaries of life. Articles entering into competition with the trust controlled products and articles of American manufacture which are sold abroad more cheaply than at home, should be put upon the free list.

We recognize that our system of tariff taxation is intimately connected with the business of the country and we favor the ultimate attainment of the principles we advocate by legislation that will not injure or destroy legitimate industry.

We denounce the action of President Taft in vetoing the bills to reduce the tariff in the cotton, woolen, metals and chemicals schedules and the farmers' free list bill, all of which were designed to give immediate relief to the masses from the exactions of the trusts.

The Republican party, while promising tariff revision, has shown by its tariff legislation, that such revision is not to be in the people's interest and having been faithless to its pledges of 1908 it should no longer enjoy the confidence of the nation. We appeal to the American people to support us in our demand for a tariff for revenue only.

High Cost of Living.

The high cost of living is a serious problem in every American home. The Republican party, in its platform attempts to escape from responsibility for present conditions by denying that they are due to a protective tariff. We take issue with them on this subject and charge that excessive prices result in a large measure from the high tariff laws enacted and maintained by the Republican party, and from trusts and commercial conspiracies fostered and encouraged by such laws.

Antitrust Law.

A private monopoly is indefensible and intolerable. We therefore favor the vigorous enforcement of the criminal law as well as the civil law against trust and trust officials, and demand enactment of such additional legislation as may be necessary to make it impossible for a private monopoly to exist in the United States. We favor the declaration by law of the conditions upon which corporations shall be permitted to engage in interstate trade, including, among others, the prevention of holding companies, of interlocking directors, of stock watering, discrimination in price, control by any corporation of so large a proportion of any industry as to make it a menace.

We condemn the action of the Republican administration in compromising with the Standard Oil company and the Tobacco trust and its failure to invoke the criminal provisions of the antitrust law against the officers of those corporations after the court declared that from the undisputed facts in the record they had violated the criminal provisions of the law. We regret that the Sherman antitrust law has received a judicial construction depriving it of much of its efficacy and we favor the enactment of legislation which will restore the statute the strength of which it has been deprived by such interpretation.

Rights of the States.

Believing that the most efficient results under our system of government are to be attained by the full exercise by the states of their reserved sovereign powers, we denounce as usurpation the efforts of our opponents to deprive the states of any of the rights reserved to them, and to enlarge and magnify by indirection the powers of the federal government.

We insist upon the full exercise of all the powers of the government, both state and national, to protect the people from injustice at the hands of those who seek to make the government a private asset in business. There is no twilight zone between the nation and the state in which exploiting interests can take refuge from both. It is as necessary that the federal government shall exercise the powers reserved to them, but we insist that federal remedies for the regulation of interstate commerce and for the prevention of private monopoly shall be added to and not substituted for state remedies.

The party then congratulates the country upon the reform triumphs of the federal income tax and direct election of United States senators, and urges all to rally to their adoption. Gratification is expressed at the unanimous sentiment in favor of publicity of elections of campaign contributions, and the house of representatives is commended for extending the doctrine to presidential appointments, ownership of newspapers and expenditures for candidates for presidential nominations. In justification for the last the party points to the "enormous" use of money in behalf of the president and his predecessor in the recent Republican presidential contest.

Presidential Primaries.

The movement towards more popular government should be promoted through legislation in each state which will permit the acceptance of the preference of the electors for national candidates at presidential primaries.

We direct that the national committee incorporate in the call for the next nominating convention a requirement that all expressions of preference for presidential candidates shall be given and the selection of delegates and alternates made through a primary election conducted by the party organization in each state where such expression and election are not provided for by state law. Committeemen who are hereafter to constitute the membership of the Democratic national committee, and whose election is not provided for by law, shall be chosen in each state at such primary elections, and the service and authority of committeemen, however chosen, shall begin immediately upon the receipt of their credentials respectively.

Campaign Contributions.

We pledge the Democratic party to the enactment of a law prohibiting any corporation from contributing to a campaign fund, and any individual from contributing any amount above a reasonable maximum.

Term of President.

We favor a single presidential term, and to that end urge the adoption of an amendment to the constitution, making the president of the United States ineligible for reelection, and we pledge the candidate of this convention to this principle.

Democratic Congress.

At this time, when the Republican party, after a generation of unlimited power in its control of the federal government, is rent into factions, it is opportune to point to the record of accomplishments of the Democratic house of representatives in the Sixty-second congress. We indorse its action and we challenge comparison of its record with that of any congress which has been controlled by our opponents.

We call the attention of the patriotic citizens of our country to its record of efficiency, economy and constructive legislation.

The platform then enumerates many of the bills initiated and passed by the house. Regarding the Democratic plans for national defense it says:

We approve the measure reported by the Democratic leaders in the house of representatives for the creation of a council of national defense which will determine a definite naval program with a view to increased efficiency and economy. The party that proclaimed and has always enforced the Monroe doctrine, and which is sponsor for the new navy, will continue faithfully to observe the constitutional requirements to provide and maintain an adequate and well proportioned navy sufficient to defend American policies, protect our citizens and uphold the honor and dignity of the nation.

Republican Extravagance.

We denounce the profligate waste of the money wrung from the people by oppressive taxation through the lavish appropriations of recent Republican congresses, which have kept taxes high and reduced the purchasing power of the people's toil. We demand a return to that simplicity and economy which befits a democratic government, and a reduction in the number of useless offices, the salaries of which drain the substance of the people.

Railroads, Express Companies, Telegraph and Telephone Lines.

We favor the efficient supervision and rate regulation of railroads, express companies, telegraph and telephone lines engaged in interstate commerce. To this end we recommend the valuation of railroads, express companies, telegraph and telephone lines by the interstate commerce commission, such valuation to take into consideration the physical value of the property, the original cost, the cost of reproduction and any element of value that will render the valuation fair and just.

We favor such legislation as will effectually prohibit the railroads, express, telegraph and telephone companies from engaging in business which brings them into competition with their shippers or patrons; also legislation preventing the over-issue of stocks and bonds by interstate railroads, express companies, telegraph and telephone lines, and legislation which will assure such reduction in transportation rates as conditions will permit, care being taken to avoid reduction that would compel a reduction of wages, prevent adequate service or do injustice to legitimate investments.

Banking Legislation.

We oppose the so-called Aldrich bill, or the establishment of a central bank, and we believe the people of the country will be largely freed from panics and consequent employment and business depression by such a systematic revision of our banking laws as will render temporary relief in localities where such relief is needed, with protection from control or domination by what is known as the money trust.

Banks exist for the accommodation of the public and not for the control of business. All legislation on the subject of banking and currency should have for its purpose the securing of these accommodations on terms of absolute security to the public and of complete protection from the misuse of the power that wealth gives to those who possess it.

We condemn the present methods of depositing government funds in a few favored banks, largely situated in or controlled by Wall street, in return for political favors, and we pledge our party to provide by law for their deposit by competitive bidding among the banking institutions of the country.

Rural Credits.

Of equal importance with the question of currency reform is the question of rural credits or agricultural finance. Therefore, we recommend that an investigation of agricultural credit societies in foreign countries be made, so that it may be ascertained whether a system of rural credits may be devised suitable to conditions in the United States; and we also favor legislation permitting national banks to loan a reasonable proportion of their funds on real estate security.

We recognize the value of vocational education and urge federal appropriations for such training and extension teaching in agriculture in cooperation with the several states.

Waterways.

We renew the declaration in our last platform relating to the conservation of our national resources and the development of our waterways. The present devastation of the lower Mississippi valley accentuates the movement for the regulation of river flow. We hold that the control of the Mississippi river is a national problem.

To maintain an adequate depth of water the entire year and thereby encourage water transportation is a consummation worthy of legislative attention and an issue national in its character.

We favor the cooperation of the United States and the respective states in plans for the comprehensive treatment of all waterways, with a view of coordinating plans for channel improvement, with plans for drainage of swamp and overflowed lands, and to this end we favor the appropriation by the federal government of sufficient funds to develop plans for draining such lands and to supervise the work of construction.

Postroads.

We favor national aid to state and local authorities in the construction and maintenance of postroads.

RIGHTS OF LABOR—We repeat our declarations of the platform of 1908. The platform says, and then reiterates the party's belief in the courts as a bulwark of liberty. Resentment is expressed toward the Republican party for raising "false issues respecting the judiciary."

If judicial processes may be abused, the document continues, we should guard them against abuse.

Experience has proved the necessity of a modification of the present law relating to injunction and we reiterate the pledges of our platforms of 1896 and 1904 in favor of a measure which passed the United States senate in 1896, relating to contempt in federal court and providing for trial by jury in cases of indirect contempt.

Questions of judicial practices have arisen, especially in connection with industrial disputes. We believe that the parties to all judicial proceedings should be treated with rigid impartiality and that injunctions should not be issued in any case in which an injunction would not issue if no industrial dispute were involved.

The expanding organization of industry makes it essential that there should be no abridgement of the right of the wage earners and producers to organize for the protection of wages and the improvement of labor conditions to the end that such labor organizations and their members should not be regarded as illegal combinations in restraint of trade.

We pledge the Democratic party to the enactment of a law creating a department of labor, represented separately in the president's cabinet in which department shall be included the subject of mines and mining.

We pledge the Democratic party, so far as the federal jurisdiction extends to an employes' compensation law.

Conservation.

We believe in the conservation and the development, for the use of all people of the natural resources of the country. Our forests, our sources of water supply, our arable and our mineral lands, and our navigable streams and all the other material resources with which our country has been so lavishly endowed, constitute the foundation of our national wealth. Such additional legislation as may be necessary to prevent their being wasted or absorbed by special or privileged interests, should be enacted and the policy of their conservation should be rigidly adhered to.

The platform here declares against unnecessary withdrawal of land from public sale and urges the broadest liberality toward the settlers.

Immediate action to make the coal deposits of Alaska available without monopolistic control is urged.

Extension of the work of the bureau of mines is pledged as well as a systematic effort to improve conditions of trade in farm products both for consumers and producers. Legislation suppressing gambling in agricultural products is favored.

The platform next urges the fostering of the merchant marine, the speedy enactment of laws for greater security of life at sea and the repeal of laws permitting the imprisonment of deserting seamen.

Favor is expressed of exempting American coastwise trade vessels from toll at the Panama canal and also of legislation forbidding use of the Panama canal to ships owned or controlled by railroads carriers engaged in transportation competitive with the canal.

Declarations for the betterment of pure food and public health measures are reaffirmed, it is declared the civil service law "should be honestly and rigidly enforced." The right of petition by employes to congress for redress of grievance is recognized.

The platform then takes up law reform and says:

We recognize the urgent need of reform in the administration of civil and criminal law in the United States and we recommend the enactment of such legislation and the promotion of such measures as will rid the present legal system of the delays, expense and uncertainties incident to the system as now administered.

The thrice expressed policy of the party against the colonial exploitation of the Philippines is reaffirmed.

Arizona and New Mexico are welcomed to the sisterhood of states and congratulated upon the beginning of auspicious careers.

Full territorial privileges are demanded for the people of Alaska.

The Democrats of house and senate are commended for compelling the abrogation of the Russian treaty of 1832 and the party is pledged anew to preserve the rights of American citizenship "at home and abroad."

A parcel post or postal express and the extension of rural delivery are favored. Interest in the Panama canal is encouraged.

The adoption of state laws for protection of the national uniform is commended.

Generous pensions are urged.

Upon "rule of the people" the platform says:

We call attention to the fact that the Democratic party's demand for a return to the rule of the people expressed in the national platform four years ago has now become the accepted doctrine of a large majority of the electors. We again remind the country that only by a larger exercise of the reserved power of the people can they protect themselves from the misuse of delegated power and the usurption of governmental instrumentality by special interest. For this reason the national convention insisted on the overthrow of Cannonism and the inauguration of a system by which United States senators could be elected by direct vote. The Democratic party offers itself to the country as an agency through which the complete overthrow and extirpation of corruption, fraud and machine rule in American politics can be effected.

Conclusion.

Our platform is one of principles which we believe to be essential to our national welfare. Our pledges are made to be kept when in office as well as relied upon during the campaign, and we invite the cooperation of all citizens, regardless of party who believe in maintaining unimpaired the institutions and traditions of our country.

Taft, Roosevelt and Devil in Race, Says Colonel Watterson

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 2.—Col. Henry Watterson will say in the Courier-Journal tomorrow:

"In a contest between three tickets headed, respectively, by Taft, Roosevelt and the devil, the Courier-Journal, being a daily newspaper and unable to take to the woods, perforce must be obliged to support his satanic majesty.

"The way the result of the Democratic convention has been reached puts in doubt an outlook which a week ago was straight ahead and as sure for the Democrats as any event could be.

"The play of the Roosevelt progressives will be to carry states enough to throw the election into the house. This is a menace and may prove a handicap. However, let all good Democrats pray for the best. The Courier-Journal approves at least the platform and will support the ticket."

WOMAN FORGETS CRUELTY AND REMARRIES SICK MAN

DENVER, July 2.—The grim specter death stood by yesterday as the best man at a wedding in a little white walled room in a tent colony out at 4636 Umatilla street where Gene Garrett Staley, a printer, 35 years old, lay dying.

Propped up by pillows, his face flushed and tears blinding his eyes, Staley gasped out the words of the marriage service which would give him back the wife who a year ago divorced him. The Rev. S. E. Taylor halted frequently as a spasm of coughing seized the dying man.

Holding his former wife's hand tightly in his, Staley bravely continued until he came to the words "until death do us part." Then he dropped back exhausted and murmured the words faintly from the supporting pillows.

Back to the wedding service there is a story of love and devotion on the part of a woman that is rarely surpassed.

A year ago Nora A. Staley obtained a divorce from the man she again married yesterday. Cruelty was her plea. Twice, she testified, he had threatened to kill her while under the influence of liquor. After she had obtained her decree she went to work in a boarding house. Besides herself there was an aged mother, two sisters and a little niece to care for. Then six months ago her former husband, worn out by dissipation, crawled away to an obscure little room to die. His divorced wife found him and had him removed to a cottage in Berkeley just around the corner of West Forty-sixth avenue from the home of her mother at 4654 Tennyson street. Every minute she could spare from her work she spent with the man who had often been unkind to her.

For weeks past the plea that she remarry him—give him another chance—has been constantly on Staley's lips. Yesterday she consented. She had him removed to a private sanatorium where he could be given better care and went for the marriage license. She telephoned for the minister and with two patients as witnesses went through the ceremony.

"I'll fool them yet," he said. "I feel better. I'll get well. I'll make it up to Nora what she has suffered for me. It was all my fault. She never was to blame."

Dispatch-Carrying Contest Tomorrow by the Boy Scouts

Tomorrow afternoon a dispatch-carrying contest will be held between Troop No. 4 of the North End Boy Scouts, and troop No. 5 of the Boys club, with a watch given by the Johnson Jewelry company for a prize. The rules of the contest are as follows:

The Rules.

Limits—North to Jackson street, east to Wahsatch avenue, south to Costilla street, west to Cascade avenue.

The goal will be the flag pole on Colorado college campus. No scout will be allowed within one block of the pole until the messengers, or one of them, shall have passed within the circle of that radius.

All scouts must appear in full uniform, if same be owned, or shall wear a ribbon on the left shoulder—blue for Troop 5 and red for Troop 4. Either messenger may disguise himself as he sees fit, except that he cannot dress in feminine attire. The message must at all times be pinned on the front of the hat, in plain sight, and the hat must be kept on the head.

If neither messenger reaches the pole without being captured, the prize will be awarded to the scout who first tags the messenger of the opposite side. Upon being tagged, the messenger must surrender the message and the capturing scout will mark the time of capture on same and deliver immediately to the person in charge at the pole. Take care to have all watches set to correspond with the time of the one in charge at pole, before the start of the game.

All contestants will assemble at the pole prior to 2 p. m., except the messengers, who will start from the above mentioned north and south limits precisely at 2 p. m.

Both messengers must travel solely on foot, and must reach the pole before 4 p. m., unless captured. If one capture is reported before the other troop's messenger reports, or is captured, the scout sign, meaning "I have gone home," will be marked on the ground at the base of the flagpole. This is to avoid long and unnecessary waiting after the contest has been decided.

No roughness will be allowed, as the messenger must immediately surrender his message as soon as he is tagged.

TOURING PARTY HERE

The start was made from Springfield, June 22, and after a week or 10 days in the Pikes Peak region, taking in all the side trips, they will go west to Salt Lake City, via Tennessee Pass, if they find that the roads are in good shape there.

ON FRISCO QUAKE

At the First Congregational church this evening at 7:45 o'clock the Rev. Ernest L. Walz of San Francisco will deliver an address on "The San Francisco Earthquake and Fire." Mr. Walz for eight years has been pastor of the Green Street Congregational church in San Francisco and under his care it has grown into one of the most useful institutions in down town city work in the Congregational denomination.

ACT ON BILL SOON

Mayor Avery received a letter from Senator Guggenheim yesterday, saying that the Colorado Springs-Manitou land bill will be taken up by the senatorial committee as soon as the Democratic convention at Baltimore ends its sessions. It is expected now that the bill will be acted on definitely within the next week or two.

Grandmothers Used Sage Tea

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair and are fast following suit.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers.

The growth and beauty of the hair depends on a healthy condition of the scalp. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy quickly kills the dandruff germs which rob the hair of its life, color and lustre, makes the scalp clean and healthy, gives the hair strength, color and beauty, and makes it grow.

Shelden Names Election Judges

County Clerk Shelden yesterday selected the judges of election at the primary and general election in Colorado Springs, from the lists submitted by County Chairman F. E. Schroiber, Republican, and County Chairman W. T. Christopher, Democrat. The chairmen agreed that the Republicans should have two of the three judges in the odd numbered precincts, and the Democrats the same proportion in the even numbered precincts. Judges in the outlying precincts hold over from 1910 to serve in the primaries only. About October 1 the county commissioners will appoint new judges in the outlying precincts to serve for the general election in November. The list of the county clerk follows:

MANITOU-STRATTON PARK STEAM ROAD IS PROPOSED

Frank L. Dana, of Houston, Tex., representing a number of Texas and eastern capitalists who are contemplating building the Manitou & Stratton Park Scenic railway, addressed the Manitou town council last night in regard to the proposition. The board tabled the reservoir bid question, to take it up at the next meeting. The only bid that is to receive their consideration is the one of James J. Cook & Co. of Denver. Their bid is between $47,000 and $48,000.

Mr. Dana, in addressing the board in regard to advertising for a franchise and right-of-way within Manitou's corporate limits, gave a brief summary of the plans of the company, which expects to spend more than $100,000 in putting in operation and equipping the nine-mile scenic line which has already been surveyed between Manitou and Stratton park. The line, as described by Mr. Dana, will bristle with new features. It will be built on a guage of 22 inches, and the cars will hold 12 passengers each, and the engines will be able to haul 10 cars each. The roadway will pass through five short tunnels. It is claimed that actual construction will begin this fall, if all preliminary arrangements are made successfully.

REMARKABLE SHOWING BY EL PASO COMPANY

The quarterly report of the El Paso Consolidated Gold Mining company, issued by President A. L. Burris, shows a total of $230,126.43 worth of ore produced during the last three months, of which $158,301.40 was on company account, and $71,825.03 on lessee account.

Even after the payment of the dividend of June 30, amounting to $24,500, and bringing the total dividends up to $1,548,295, the company has about $125,000 cash resources, including the ore in transit.

President Burris repeats his belief that in the extraction of nearly $300,000,000 in gold, Cripple Creek has been but scratched, and he cites recent excellent strikes in the El Paso. At 700 feet, the fifth level, the company is mining $20 ore on a shoot 1,500 feet long, and averaging three feet wide, a phenomenal condition. Every indication of high grade ore at the lowest levels is apparent, and he thinks the lower workings will materially discount the production of $7,000,000 from the upper levels.

HEALTHY INCREASE IN ASSETS SHOWN

Myron Stratton Home Corporation Worth $6,448,368.

Auditor Makes Report

The report of H. H. Mitchell, who audited the accounts of the Stratton Home corporation for the year 1911, was given out for publication yesterday by the home trustees. It shows assets for the year valued at $6,448,368.66, compared with $6,422,118.61 for 1910, and a cash surplus of $346,887.12 in 1911, as against $189,302.75 the year preceding. According to the report, the total receipts for 1911 were $368,650.61, and the disbursements $328,757.65, leaving a cash balance of $39,892.96. The report covers an audit of the following, all controlled by the Stratton Home corporation:

The executors of the estate of W. S. Stratton, trustees of the estate, the International Realty company, Colorado Springs and Interurban Railway company, Stratton Cripple Creek Mining and Development company, Arcadia Consolidated Mining company, Granite Hill M. and M. company, Matoa Gold Mining company, Reno M. and M. company, Sacramento G. and M. company, Starr King Gold Mining company, and the Zenobia Gold Mining company.

No dividends were paid by the Colorado Springs and Interurban Railway company in 1911, due to the expense falling upon the company because of street paving and other improvements. The report states that the Broadmoor hotel and casino made a nominal profit in 1910, and that the 1911 season was "as good as could be expected under the circumstances." There was no report covering an audit of the Brown Palace hotel, Denver, that work having been done there. The report contains the following statement from the auditor:

"From an examination of the different vouchers I am fully satisfied, as before, that due care and diligence is exercised in the purchase of supplies and in the disbursement of all moneys of the Myron Stratton Home corporation, as well as the different controlled companies heretofore mentioned."

Watch for Gazette Balloons and Get Fourth July Prize

Here's a chance for the hustling and wideawake boys and girls of Colorado Springs to win a Fourth of July prize.

Tonight about 8 o'clock The Gazette will send up five big Fourth of July balloons, from The Gazette building, each one with a tag fastened to it. These tags, when brought to The Gazette office any time before July 10, will be received for the following prizes:

1. $5 in cash.
2. $2.50 in cash.
3. Forty bunches of fireworks.
4. One large American flag.
5. One 5-pound box of chocolates.

There will be a mark on each tag, which will indicate to the finder the prize he or she has won.

And so it's up to the sharp-eyed little folks to be on the lookout about 8 o'clock, when the big balloons go up from The Gazette office. Watch the direction they take, and the spot where they come down. Then get out early tomorrow morning, and bring the tag you find to The Gazette office.

Every balloon carries a prize-winning tag, and you are sure to be well repaid for your trouble.

DEMO. ASSEMBLY, SECOND DISTRICT, PUEBLO, AUG. 7

The Democratic assembly of the Second Congressional district will be held in Pueblo, August 7, at 10 a. m., and candidates for the nomination of congressmen to be voted on at the primaries to follow, will be named. Of the total of 581 delegates, El Paso county will have 41.

SEEK NEW ARCHITECT

The trustees of the Myron Stratton Home corporation will take steps within a few days to secure an architect to finish the plans for the home, as it is practically certain that George Edward Barton's present condition forbids his finishing the work within any stated time. Mr. Barton is still in poor health at his home near Boston, and word received by the Stratton trustees this week places a wet blanket on the hopes that he would soon be able to return and take up the work which he had started so brilliantly.

Dr. D. H. Rice, one of the trustees, said last night that it will be necessary to secure another architect, and that the work will be pushed with all possible speed, to make up for lost time.

MISS MORROW TUCKER WEDS M. R. KIRKWOOD

The marriage of Miss Morrow Tucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Tucker, and Marion Rice Kirkwood, son of the late Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Kirkwood, all of this city, was celebrated last evening in the First Congregational church. The pastor, the Rev. W. W. Ranney, officiated in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends of the young couple. The music was a feature, beginning about 7 o'clock, and continuing until the entrance of the bridal procession half an hour later.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father, who gave her in marriage. Miss Margaret Veats Tucker, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, while Miss Helen Kirkwood, niece of the groom, was the bridesmaid, and Samuel W. Kittleman was best man.

Also in the bridal procession was a bevy of young girls, Sunday school pupils of the bride, Winona Rundquist, Myrtle Cunningham, Margaret Kirton, Eleanor Bartlett, Maide Allen and Harriet Aylard. Preceding the ushers were Robert Tucker, brother of the bride, and Arthur Kirkwood, nephew of the groom. The ushers were Donald F. Tucker, brother of the bride; Carl R. Blackman, Joseph McConnell of Norma, Okla., and Judson Bennett of Muskegon, Mich.

After the ceremony, the bridal party and immediate relatives were entertained at the Tucker residence on North Nevada avenue. Later Mr. Kirkwood and bride left for the Pacific coast, and will make their home at Palo Alto. Mr. Kirkwood is a graduate of Leland Stanford university, and he will become an instructor in law this fall at his alma mater.

Democratic Candidate Is Congratulated by Springs Wilson Club

The following self-explanatory telegram was sent yesterday to Woodrow Wilson, Democratic candidate for president, at Sea Girt, N. J., by H. H. Seldomridge, president of the local Woodrow Wilson club:

"The Woodrow Wilson club of Colorado Springs extends congratulations. Your candidacy gives inspiration to every progressive and loyal Democrat, and is an appeal to the truest and highest instincts of American citizenship.

A meeting of the club will be called soon to perfect organization and plan for active participation in the presidential campaign.

Work of Local League Is Told in Civic Magazine

The June number of the American City magazine contains an article written by Mrs. William C. Sturgis of this city, on the work of the Civic league in Colorado Springs and its intimate acquaintance with the city council proceedings, at whose meetings the lady members of the league are granted a desk. The story is illustrated with a halftone of the city hall here, and describes the great activity and interest of the members of the league. It is a valuable advertisement for the Springs government. A copy of the magazine is on file in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

CONTRACTS DELIVERED FOR STREET LIGHTING

Contracts for the permanent decorative street lighting system for the following blocks have been delivered by the Chamber of Commerce to A. J. Lawton, commissioner of public works and property:

Tejon, from Pikes Peak to Cucharas, and from Bijou to Platte; Huerfano, from Tejon to Nevada; Kiowa, from Tejon to Cascade. These five blocks, in addition to the block on Pikes Peak between Tejon and Cascade, in which installation is already being made, have been completely signed up, and work on the installation of the poles will begin within a very short time.

In other blocks within the proposed lighting district practically all of the property owners have signed to the plan, with the exception of four or five, who have not as yet given their formal consent. It is believed, however, by the special committee that it will be a matter of only a few days that these blocks will also sign up and contracts be delivered to Mr. Lawton.

At the meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce held yesterday at Cheyenne park, the disposition of the permanent lights was referred to the special lighting committee, consisting of L. H. Martin, chairman; W. H. Spurgeon and O. E. Hemenway, which committee has had charge of the work in regard to the installation of the permanent lighting system. It has not been definitely decided just what will be done with this system. These lights were installed last summer, as an experiment, being met by the city council, Chamber of Commerce and individual property owners and merchants who are interested in securing the installation of the lighting system.

The turning over of the contracts, the work of the special committee appointed by the Chamber of Commerce to take up this matter, has been completed, and it is now in the hands of Commissioner Lawton and the Colorado Springs Light, Heat and Power company.

The district through which it was proposed to install the permanent decorative lights includes the following streets: Tejon, from Boulder to Vermijo; Pikes Peak, from Cascade to Nevada; Kiowa, from Cascade to Tejon; Huerfano, from Nevada to the viaduct; Cascade, from Pikes Peak to Huerfano. Efforts also are being made by property owners to secure the extension of the system in the following blocks: Pikes Peak, from Nevada to the Santa Fe depot; Kiowa, from Tejon to Nevada; Cucharas, from Tejon to Nevada; Tejon, from Vermijo to Costilla, and Cascade, from Huerfano to Cucharas, and from North Park place to Bijou; Nevada, from Kiowa to Pikes Peak, and also from Huerfano to Cucharas.

YOUNG MOTHERS

No young woman, in the joy of coming motherhood, should neglect to prepare her system for the physical ordeal she is to undergo. The health of both herself and the coming child depends largely upon the care she bestows upon herself during the waiting months. Mother's Friend prepares the expectant mother's system for the coming event, and its use makes her comfortable during all the term. It works with and for nature, and by gradually expanding all tissues, muscles and tendons, involved, and keeping the breasts in good condition, brings the woman to the crisis in splendid physical condition. The baby, too, is more apt to be perfect and strong where the mother has thus prepared herself for nature's supreme function. No better advice could be given a young expectant mother than that she use Mother's Friend; it is a medicine that has proven its value in thousands of cases. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

HILLSIDE CONGREGATIONAL S. S. WINS COUNTY BANNER

The officers of the El Paso County Sunday School association and the general committees that had charge of the recent state convention here, together with the superintendents of county Sunday schools, met last night at the Bijou cafeteria. Reports of the various committees were read, and the work of the convention was closed.

The committee on awarding the banner to the school having the largest proportionate representation at the convention, reported in favor of the Hillside Congregational Sunday school, which had 33.3 percent present. Christ Evangelical church was second, with 30.4 percent. The big banner was formally presented to the representatives of the Hillside school.

The financial report of the Sunday school convention was read. The finance committee reported receipts on subscriptions $831.64, while the amount paid out was $799.55. The total enrollment of the convention was 1,099, of which 818 were from El Paso county schools. Something Doing at the Zoo Every Minute Tomorrow

There is going to be something doing at Zoo park on the Fourth of July from morning till night, with a grand display of fireworks as the closing feature, and the park attractions undoubtedly will draw thousands of people, both day and evening.

An all-day picnic and outing will attract many, while the main attraction of the afternoon, the baseball game, promises to be attended by the biggest crowd of the season. The Zoos will be opposed by the Rio Grandes of Denver, who always put up a game worth going a long way to see. The game will be called at 2:15 sharp, and special cars to and from the park will be run by the street car company.

Arrangements have been made with The Gazette for detailed bulletins of the Johnson-Flynn championship fight at Las Vegas, which starts at 2 o'clock. The returns will be read by megaphone at the baseball park between innings just as fast as they are received over the telegraph wires, and patrons of the ball game will get them practically as soon as they are received uptown.

The pyrotechnic display in the evening, which is scheduled to begin at 9:15, will be the most elaborate seen here in years. A special expert from the Paine Pyrotechnic company of Chicago has been here several days arranging the display, which will be exhibited at the edge of the large reservoir back of the bathing beach. Features of the display will be the Battle of Santiago, Niagara Falls, Bombardment of Morro Castle, Eruption of Mount Vesuvius and other set pieces, with a lavish assortment of rockets, candles and various smaller pieces.

GILES RANCH SOLD

The big Giles ranch, 12 miles southwest of Colorado Springs, on Rock creek, was sold yesterday by Public Trustee E. R. Hufford to Horace and Clara B. Hale, for $28,631. They held a mortgage for $27,000 on the property. The ranch, which contains 5,266 acres, is one of the oldest and most widely known in this part of the country, and was once the home of Bob Womack, who discovered Cripple Creek. It was known as the Bartlett ranch until Mr. Hale purchased it. Mr. Hale sold to S. A. Giles, under mortgage, and the latter, who is now connected in business with Imboden & Hill, conducted it until its sale yesterday. Imboden and Hill served a term in the penitentiary for bank wrecking in Denver.

Referee Smith Outlines Rules Governing Fight

EAST LAS VEGAS, N. M., July 2.—Champion Jack Johnson and Jim Flynn, his opponent in the Fourth of July battle, completed their last preparations for the fight at a conference with Referee Ed Smith, tonight.

It was agreed that the men would protect themselves at all times and would break at the order of the referee.

"They are fully informed as to the rules which will govern the fight," said Referee Smith, tonight, "and are satisfied to fight under straight Marquis of Queensberry rules. There will be no holding and hitting, and I do not expect to lay my hands upon them during the fight."

There was some disturbance over the conference tonight, Johnson failing to appear at Promoter Curley's office at the time set. Flynn and his staff of trainers were there, but the negro did not come to the office at all. Smith encountering him before the time set.

"The fact that they were not both present does not signify," Smith said, "They fully understand each other's position, and there is no ground for future disagreement. Everything is ready for the battle itself, so far as the actual fighting is concerned."

Neither Johnson nor Flynn did any work today beyond a little boxing, which, in reality, was merely posturing about the ring, staged for the benefit of the moving picture machines. At Johnson's camp a sudden thunder storm drenched the crowd, but the negro kept right on toying with his sparring partners.

The most interesting development of the day was Johnson's statement that, in all probability, he would accept the offer of Hugh McIntosh, the Australian promoter, for a match with Sam Langford, in that country, this winter.

"It looks likely," Johnson declared today. "I have had a lot of mail on the subject from Mr. McIntosh, and I think I will go to Australia in October, perhaps sooner. I will go to Chicago after this fight and start from there for Australia."

There was some gossip today about the Johnson camp as to a possible Johnson-Palzer fight in New York, Labor day. Johnson appeared disinclined to talk of the bout.

"I would like to get him," was all he would say beyond declaring that he felt confident of his reception in New York should he meet Palzer there.

Johnson weighed 214 pounds today. His manager, Tom Flanagan, declared that he could enter the ring at 210 without the slightest difficulty. Johnson certainly looked it today. He appeared to be in splendid form and full of energy as a boy.

Just as the motion picture men were through filming Johnson it began to rain and the big crowd of spectators beat it to Jack's bungalow where they sought shelter on the porch. This gave way, but as the fall was only about 18 inches, no one was hurt. Johnson still remains a 2 to 1 favorite in the betting.

George W. Dickerson, a banker of Springfield, Mo., and a benefactor of the late Stanley Ketchel, arrived at Las Vegas today for the fight. He is accompanied by Ketchel's 18-year-old brother, who is a school boy at Coffeyville, Kan.

Rudy Unholz and Kid Yoakum will christen the new arena here tomorrow night when they will engage in a 20-round rumpus at popular prices.

RYAN--DUCRAY MATCH COMES OFF TONIGHT

If there is any way to tell which is the better man between Ryan and DuCray, tonight's match at Temple theater should bring it out. DuCray will get in early today from Grand Junction where he has been getting plenty of hard work on his fruit farm, and is in great condition for the bout. Ryan has been doing some extra hard work on the road to perfect his wind, and also working out on the mat, and says he will be fit tonight.

With the toe hold barred the local man will face the westerner on a more equal footing than has characterized their other matches, all of DuCray's falls heretofore having been gained with this hold. One thing is sure, this pair are more evenly matched than any other two grapplers who have wrestled in Colorado Springs, and their bouts are always featured by lots of action.

Jimmy Mack, who has not been in the limelight of the mat since his attack of blood poisoning last winter, following his match with Kutsugeras, will go on in the semiwindup with the St. Louis Kid, a lightweight matman who is said to be a hard proposition. Preceding the match between these two there will be a preliminary bout, beginning at 8:30 o'clock.

AMERICANS WIN PISTOL SHOOTING; SWEDES SECOND

STOCKHOLM, July 2.—In the pistol shooting competition for teams today, firing at a distance of 50 metres, the United States team won. The United States team was awarded the gold medal, its aggregate score being 1,916, Sweden was second with 1,849 and Great Britain third with 1,804.

This is another victory for America in the Olympic games.

The training of the United States team in the Olympic games was interfered with somewhat today by a drizzling rain which softened the ground. The Americans had their first opportunity of practicing on the stadium tracks.

The crown prince of Sweden and Colonel Black, president of the Swedish Olympic committee, received James E. Sullivan, United States commissioner at the games today and complimented him upon the appearance of the American team.

ELKS WILL PLAY ROBBINS NINE AT WASHBURN FIELD

Not desiring to put their new uniforms in the camphor chest thus early in the season, the Elks baseball team has arranged a game for Saturday afternoon with the Robbins nine. The engagement will take place at Washburn field, beginning at 3 o'clock, and promises to furnish a lively tilt.

ZOOZ AND GRANDES TANGLE HERE TODAY

The Rio Grandes of Denver versus the Zooz is the classy card at Zoo park this afternoon, and as a special treat for the fair sex, Alderman Coughlin announces a ladies' matinee, ladies being admitted to the baseball game free of charge.

In order to accommodate businessmen, the game today will not be called until 3:30, and it is likely that one of the largest week-day baseball crowds ever seen at the park will be on hand when the umpire starts the game.

The Rio Grandes are the strongest, hardest hitting team in the state outside of the Zooz, and every game between the teams last season and this has been a battle royal. So far this year the score stands a game each, and both of the matches have been nip and tuck. For today's game Hastings will be in the box for the Zooz, with Dixon behind the bat, and the blonde twirler, who is rounding into fine shape, is hard to beat when he is right. Gaut or Ball will bend em over for the Grandes.

Tomorrow afternoon the same teams will tangle again, the Fourth of July game being called at 2:15, with Van Stone and Fitsporter on the points for the locals.

Bulletins of the big fight between Johnson and Flynn at Las Vegas, furnished by The Gazette direct from the ringside, will be read by rounds at the baseball park, and if the game should happen to be over before the fight, the bulletins will be continued, so that the crowds can get the final result right at the park.

The teams will line up as follows:

To Take World Tour

ST. LOUIS, July 2.—Manager Roger Bresnahan of the Cardinals has received an invitation from Manager McGraw of the Giants to accompany him (McGraw) on a baseball tour of the world next winter.

McGraw is planning the most pretentious trip ever undertaken by a ball club, and he wants Bresnahan as his rival tactician on the long junket.

In keeping with McGraw's policy of doing everything right, the Giant manager this winter intends to journey to every country on the old continent and also to Australia with two of the most representative teams in baseball today.

One of the teams will be the Giants. The other will be a picked aggregation. Bresnahan will command the latter, as Roger has all but decided to accept the invitation.

In his letter to Bresnahan, McGraw says he has completed all arrangements, and the journey will last well night three months.

THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE

IT WAS General Grant, we believe, who first declared that the Democrats can always be depended on to make a fatal blunder at a critical time, and the history of the party in the last half century has almost invariably borne out this assertion. Time and again, when Republican dissension created opportunity for Democratic victory, the party demonstrated the appropriateness of the donkey as its emblem by nominating the wrong candidate, taking up the wrong issue, or making some other fool move. Since the formation of the Republican party in 1856 fourteen administrations have passed into history, but the Democrats have controlled only two of them. If it had not been for their propensity for making blunders at the wrong time they doubtless would have fared better.

But even the donkey has occasional lucid intervals, and the Democratic animal is experiencing one this year. Wilson was first in the field with his candidacy, and as the country scrutinized his record and read his speeches it was impressed with his sanity and sound common sense. But at that time it could hardly hope for his nomination, for who ever heard of the Democrats choosing their best man?

Then Champ Clark got into the game with his idiotic "houn' dawg" song. In point of fitness for the Presidency the mythical dog is about as well equipped as his master, for despite Clark's long service in Congress he does not stand for a single definite principle or policy and his name is not associated with a single noteworthy achievement. Indeed, his chief claim on his party has been that he is an "old-fashioned Democrat" whatever that may mean. It often happens that a man of this type catches the ear of the public and sweeps the country, and this was what Clark did almost. In the pre-convention campaign he won a long lead over Wilson and the other two candidates, Underwood and Harmon, and if it had not been for Bryan's courageous fight in the convention he almost certainly would have won the nomination. The Democratic party may well be thankful to the Nebraska leader for saving it from the colossal blunder which was indicated by the first ballots at Baltimore. And since the Democrats have a good chance of winning the election next November, the country as a whole is in debt to Bryan for pursuing a course which led to the selection of a fit man.

SEALS TAFT'S DOOM.

First of all, Governor Wilson is a man of unimpeachable character and unflinching moral courage, and with educational attainments of an order such as are possessed by few men who reach high political station. He is not a politician in the usual sense of the term, although his nomination shows that his sort of politics wins in the long run. His public career has been brief, but it has been eventful enough to inspire confidence in his honesty of purpose and his devotion to principle. And finally, he is a thorough progressive, which in this day means much to the American people.

Wilson will beat Taft at least two to one, for which blessing let us give thanks. Things are looking better than they did ten days ago. Whatever else may happen, Taft is defeated, and the cause of representative government is safe.

THE THIRD-TERM BOGEY

MR. BRYAN has been on record for a long time as opposed not only to a third Presidential term, but to a second one as well. He does not even sanction the proposal, so often heard, to lengthen the term to five years and forbid re-election. He thinks four years in the White House is as much as any man ought to have.

Perhaps it was the Bryan influence that placed the following plank in the platform adopted at Baltimore last night:

> We favor a single Presidential term, and to that end urge the adoption of an amendment to the constitution making the President of the United States ineligible for reelection, and we pledge the candidate of this convention to this principle.

There is no reference to the length of the term, so the amendment could make it four years, or five, or ten, and still comply with the letter of the Democratic platform. Nevertheless, the declaration is mere tommyrot.

What harm has ever befallen this country, or even threatened it, from the lack of a constitutional limitation of the time which a man may serve in the Presidency? Since the establishment of our government it has been deemed wise and proper to give a second term to a President who made good. The third-term bogey has been invoked only for political effect. It was used successfully to defeat Grant in 1880, and it was revived this year by all of the Roosevelt haters in the country also for political effect. Nobody with intelligence enough to do his own thinking ever really believed for a minute that a third term involved any actual danger to the republic.

Washington has been quoted on this subject, but more often misquoted. The anti-third-termers profess to believe that he solemnly warned the country against continuing a President in office more than eight years, and himself declined a third term because he believed it to be a dangerous precedent. The truth is that Washington refused a third nomination because he was worn out and desired nothing so much as the peace of retirement. In a letter to Hamilton he expressly stated his conviction that the country ought to avail itself of the services of any man for an indefinite time, whenever in an emergency such course seemed wise.

And in this declaration Washington said about all there is to say on the subject. Whenever the people believed that a certain President is too valuable to be dispensed with it would be folly to retire him merely because of reverence for a myth.

A PLEA FOR THE ICEMAN.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

With much appreciation for your generosity in giving so much space from time to time in the Open Parliament, will you kindly print the following on next Wednesday morning?

Tomorrow is the "Glorious Fourth"—the day on which we commemorate liberty and independence and we are all desirous of making that day the best day of all the year because so long ago it brought so much to us. And if we are considerate we will want to give the other fellow a square deal.

The iceman would like to enjoy the Fourth also; why not help him to do so? On Wednesday order enough ice to last you over Thursday. It may cause you a little inconvenience, but it will add to your enjoyment on the Fourth because you will realize then that you have done your share in helping someone else to enjoy the day, and "Old Dobbin" will be glad too. NOT AN ICEMAN.

WOMEN'S SOCIAL USEFULNESS.

From the Kansas City Times.

Many tributes to the worth of women in the state were made in yesterday's session of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Rather, it should be said that statements of their many services were made. The statements were tributes because they were true.

And this is to pass over those general universal services, encompassed in the old sentiment, "the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world."

There is hardly a vital public move of these days that is not indebted to women as well as to men for its progress. In considering ethics, social welfare and politics, if one does not mention some women who have aided their advance it is because there have been too many of them for such individual enumeration.

The women have done what they have without the general right of suffrage. The fact is certainly not an argument against their demand for equal voting rights with men. But it does demonstrate that the ballot is not the only instrument of social and political usefulness.

EMBARRASSING BLINDNESS OF CANDIDATE TAFT.

From the New York American.

Mr. Taft's campaign is made more desperate than the ordinary run of forlorn hopes, because he exasperates and embarrasses his captains and counselors by a total failure to understand his own case. Thus, in his formal statement issued from the White house on Sunday morning, Mr. Taft raised goose flesh on all Republican bosses. He celebrates his nomination as a personal victory won by his own heroic defiance of custom—in taking the stump against Mr. Roosevelt.

Of course, all the world knows, and none better than the convention leaders who turned the trick, that Mr. Taft's nomination was accomplished—in spite of his enormous unpopularity and the depressing effects of his stump-speaking—by the sheer brute force of a national committee that was expressly picked for that kind of work four years ago.

Mr. Taft says: "Never before in the history of the country was such a preconvention campaign fought. Precedents of propriety were broken in a president's taking the stump, much to the pain and discomfort of many patriotic, high-minded citizens; but the emergency was great, and the course thus taken was necessary to avert a national calamity, and IN VIEW OF THE RESULT IT WAS JUSTIFIED."

Now the "view of the result" that is taken by the Taft managers, in their secret hearts, is that Mr. Taft has not only exposed the Republican machine to universal reprobation, but has overstrained it and racked it to death, by a course of public speaking that so completely demonstrated the popular distaste for the president that appearances cannot any longer be kept up.

The observing historian of the Taft preconvention campaign cannot help noting that its failure was progressive and cumulative, and that the Taft candidature arrived at the door of the convention in such a state of depletion and distress that nothing but a prodigy of machine power could lift it to the fragile platform.

Before Mr. Taft took the stump, his small store of popularity that had survived the Aldrich alliance, the Winona speech, the Ballinger case and the veto of the reformed woolen schedule had been wiped out by a succession of such incidents as the enforced resignation of Dr. Wiley, the Penrose-Archbald disgrace and the Tartian fanaticism toward Arizona.

Thus, when the president was shocked into sudden campaigning activity by the news of what had been done in the Illinois primaries on a Tuesday, he succeeded only in eliciting a still more alarming report from the Pennsylvania primaries on the following Saturday. From the comparatively mild rebuff of Massachusetts, Mr. Taft descended in his spiral "swing around the circle" to the staggering rebuke of his own state of Ohio. He struck the unyielding bottom of public repugnance when the state of New Jersey refused to give him a single delegate.

"In view of the result" it is evident that the dead weight of Taft has started every rivet in the Republican machine.

Centershots

By ED HOWE.

People who wouldn't rob a cripple have less scruples about taking advantage of a man who can afford it.

If it is true that our ancestors were so bad that it became necessary to drown all of them except Noah and his family, people are not that bad now; so while we have not improved as much as we should, we have improved some.

It must require a good deal of nerve for a leader to say the people are starving slaves when they are really enjoying more liberty and prosperity than was ever before known in the history of any race.

When a Reform movement results in the use of firearms, it is a sign that one side or the other has gone too far. Peaceful public sentiment is usually powerful enough to bring about every change that is necessary and proper.

People admire a man and wife who are happy, but if the happy husband and wife talk too much about it, there will be ill-natured comment.

Every good thing is promptly overloaded as soon as we know positively that it is a good thing.

In a big job, a man can't hang on month after month, and make explanations every Saturday night; he must either make good, or quit.

Some men are as incapable as a wolf of appreciating that industry and fairness pay better than idleness and petty violations of the rules.

Do You Love Railway Stations?

By RUTH CAMERON.

There are some kinds of eavesdropping that are really quite excusable, don't you think so?

The crowd held me close behind two young people in the railway station the other night, so close I couldn't help hearing all they said; and what is more I wouldn't have if I could. For that was the kind of eavesdropping that I call harmless.

He was tall and broad shouldered and fine looking, the kind of young man we like to call typically American. She was a little person, not at all pretty, but with a piquant, radiant face that fairly shone with the love of living. Just then it was tilted up to his, and she was saying with a voice as radiant as the face, "Oh, my dear, isn't this place lovely?"

He laughed—a hearthy, infectious laugh that was also typically American.

"Well, I don't care," she protested. "It's so exciting and interesting. Everybody's going somewhere and it makes you feel kind of important and alive, and you wonder who everybody is and where they are going and if they are as happy as you are. I just love railway stations."

The crowd suddenly shifted and I was swept in another direction and rudely interrupted in my shameless eavesdropping, but not before I heard the man laugh again. Did you ever realize that a laugh can be as loving as a caress? It can.

The little person, as I said before, was not in the least pretty, while her big lover was tall and clean and handsome, the kind of man that all women just naturally fall in love with. And he had chosen her and was evidently about as much in love as a man can be. Do you want to know what I think was the charm in her that won him away from the prettier girls he might undoubtedly have had?

The fact that she loved railway stations.

You are laughing at that? Well, of course, I only meant it symbolically. That little speech of hers was symbolical of the zest that she evidently found in living. She was undoubtedly one of those blessed folks who are always full of a relish of life, who are so interested, so alive and awake, that even a railway station is an absorbingly interesting place to them. Consequently I did not wonder how the man happened to fall in love with her. I only wondered if he realized how fortunate he was.

A zest in living, such as that which made this little person's face and personality radiant is partly inborn; it also has something to do with one's supply of health and vitality; but again it is partly the result of deliberately refusing to grow up, of keeping the child heart always alive within one, and of opening wide the windows of one's heart and mind to the happiness and meaning of life.

No one who has even the least share of this charm can fail to be attractive. No one, no matter how beautiful or brilliant, is complete without it.

Do you love railway stations? Is it too late for you to learn to?

What the Press Agents Say

"A NATION'S PERIL" AT THE ODEON TOMORROW, JULY 4

A gripping story of patriotism, love and intrigue, carried on before Uncle Sam's very eyes, in one of the United States coast artillery forts, showing the big 14-inch guns in action, the submarine mine chart room, from which a battleship's tender, bearing the spies of another nation, is blown to atoms.

The strongest, most sensational picture ever put on the screen, written by a United States coast artillery officer and played within the portals of one of our frowning fortresses, the picture is correct in every detail, and will hold you enthralled and spellbound.

The mine explosion alone, hurling thousands of tons of water into a column 90 feet high, and carrying the fragments of the shattered vessel, makes this picture surpass all others.

"A Nation's Peril" is a Pathe feature in two reels. This will be shown in addition to the regular program, consisting of the Pathe Weekly and two more that make five reels, or a show lasting almost two hours. The admission will be 10c for adults and 5c for children. Remember, one day only, July 4, at the Odeon.

Yesterday afternoon and last evening as well, there were frequent upheavals of applause, and at the conclusion of the second act every member of the company was given a curtain call.

Real "firecracker" music in that special musical program for tomorrow afternoon and night, and when Prof. William Fink says a thing, musically speaking, it's about as well as done.

The "Celebrated Gavotte," a cello solo by Mr. Walter H. Heermann, between the second and third acts of "The Lily" is a classic of its kind; it is included in tonight's musical numbers.

"The Lion and the Mouse" for the week commencing next Monday night. The cast is especially suited to each and every one of the characters, and the staging will be fully up to the highest standard.

Preparations are well under way for one of the celebrated George Cohan's musical comedies, and as the chorus required will be large, local singers will be given a "try out." Early registration should be made.

AT THE MAJESTIC, ECLAIR COMEDY TRIUMPH, "THE RUSTIC MAIDEN"

Nell Knickerbocker, a wealthy heiress, returns to New York after four years' study abroad, to find that the daughters of her friend, Mrs. Van Kleeck, have been so spoiled by luxury and good times that they are unbearable. The talented Nell promises to cure them, by masquerading as a country cousin. She pays a visit to the Van Kleeck household, and by her "rustic" manners and "pranks," completely conquers the haughty spirit of the disagreeable daughters. They take her to dinner parties, theater and a dance, at every place she monopolizes the attentions of the men, despite her pretense at awkwardness and "greenness." In the end she shows her musical ability, and wins for herself a husband who she is sure does not marry her for her money. The film teaches the lesson of humility and good nature, in a clean spirit of jollity which will bring happy applause from your audiences. More "Rustic Maidens" are needed in thousands of American homes!

Then there's a 101—Bison—101 and an Animated Weekly, with all the news of the week in pictures, including the Republican National convention, the Coliseum and the crowds, Senator Borah of Idaho, Roosevelt's double; John M. Keyes, of Massachusetts, the Chicago Flower Girls, Elbert Hubbard, reporter, biggest newspaper stunt in history, Stubbs of Kansas, John Wannamaker, Colonel Roosevelt, President Taft.

Also good music by George, and the price is 5 cents for any seat.

"THE BLUE MOUSE," MATINEE AND NIGHT TODAY

James Hawley and Garrick Players will be seen in the greatest of Clyde Fitch's comedy success, "The Blue Mouse," at the Opera house today, matinee and night. The play will run the week through, with a special matinee tomorrow (Thursday), July 4. "The Blue Mouse" is a play most suited to the Fourth of July, and shot is fired every second—that is to say, "shot of laughs." This comedy is meeting with great success this week, having opened on Monday evening to a packed house, and it looks as if they are bound to see "The Blue Mouse," as last night's audience was a goodly one.

A better production could not have been picked by the management to be more fitting to the Hawley cast of players. Each and every member have roles that "fit like gloves."

Again the old saying can shine, "Go where the crowds go."

THE HASKIN LETTER

WOMEN'S CLUB WORK
IX—IN DOMESTIC SCIENCE AND FOR PURE FOOD.

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Long years before the general federation was formed or even thought of, a prominent woman, speaking before a body of earnest club women interested in self-improvement said: "Let it never for a moment be forgotten that a club woman's first duty is to her home. No outside work can ever make up for the neglect of home duties." Despite many assertions to the contrary, the spirit of this statement has always been the keynote of women's club efforts so it follows that while civics, education and other matters have been seemingly most popular, there has never been a time when domestic science in its broadest sense was not a dominant feature in the club work of the women of every state.

The changes in industrial conditions have wrought changes in the home life of every family and, therefore, domestic science, household economics or whatever other term is applied to home making, had first to take into consideration the application of modern conditions to the demands of the family—many of these demands being in a fluid state of evolution. With the coming of higher educational advantages for women ther came temporarily a distaste for many things domestic. Mothers took a pride in the intellectual attainment of their daughters and neglected to train them for caring for their future families. Then too, when women were forced into wage earning positions they had not always the opportunity to prepare for homemaking. The result of this neglect has become apparent in the present generation and the club women are quick to profit by the lesson. Now the pendulum is swinging towards the middle again, and, while the girls are being liberally educated in every chosen calling, the fact is not lost sight of that every woman, at some period of her life, is likely to have a home to care for so a preparation for this is being made a part of her education. Besides this, the domestic science work of the clubs aims to help the women who did not receive instruction in home making before marriage to use all means possible for increasing the comfort of their families.

Helping Hand for Other Clubs.

The General Federation of Women's Clubs extends a helping hand to every club working along any line of domestic science. There are many lectures upon this subject suited to the different needs of the individual clubs. Some of them consist of practical, concise information upon every-day subjects which help untrained housewives to provide better food and clothing and more comfort for their families and to spend less money in doing so. For the women who have mastered this elementary part of the work there are courses in the chemistry of food, in advanced ideas in home furnishings and kindred other topics. The lessons advocated by club women are always suited to the needs of the people to whom they are presented. For instance, cooking lessons for the wives of men on a small salary will not contain recipes for making a cake calling for a dozen eggs but it may give simple directions for making one that is both good and wholesome requiring two or three eggs.

When it is considered that 90 per cent of all that people earn is spent for food, clothing or shelter the importance of securing the maximum value from this expenditure cannot be disputed. The time has come when housekeeping is recognized as a science calling for special instruction instead of an unskilled employment that can be picked up haphazard without any training. It is impossible, in many homes, for the mother to give this instruction even when she is competent to do it and it becomes the aim of the club to work for the welfare of the home in this way. Under the auspices of the club women of Colorado, lecturers have been sent out to many small towns in order that the gospel of right living might be sent to the women who most need it.

Lectures Deeply Appreciated.

Sometimes these lectures have been given in halls and skating rinks, unattractive in appearance and lacking in many conveniences, but the attendance evidenced the appreciation of the audiences. Women came pouring in, sometimes carrying a baby or two with them. Often they have ridden miles through snow storms or walked long muddy roads to reach the lectures which are generally given in courses continuing a week or 10 days. During that time systematic instruction in hygiene, the care of small children and the preparation of simple food is given. At the close of a course in one small town, a middle aged woman came forward and said: "If I could have had a week like this when I was a young housekeeper I would have saved quarts of tears and long hours of wretchedness. I did not know how to keep house and my first two babies died because I did not know how to take care of them."

The club women are keeping in mind the fact that more than $10,000,000,000 annually is spent in the United States for food, shelter and clothing. The same amount of money to be expended in other ways or to be invested in a commercial manner would be safeguarded by the trained experience of those having it in charge. Yet until a comparatively recent period little attention was paid in the training of the persons who are to handle this great sum for the benefits of the American homes. The domestic science courses of the women's clubs takes the stand that home economy is as important to the political economy of the nation as any other branch of finance.

Women Invited to Meetings.

Under the direction of the club women, domestic science conferences to which the men are invited also are held regularly in many of the states. In many instances the women cannot have the necessary appliances for the improvement of the home because the men hold the purse strings. This fact is especially true in the farming districts and is largely responsible for the discontent that prevails among farmers' wives. There are farms which have every outside convenience, including running water in the barn and yet the wife and mother may be using an old tomato can in the kitchen for a dipper and be forced to pump every drop of water she uses or to carry it for a considerable distance from a well or spring. When such subjects are discussed in open meeting in the presence of men it is surprising how soon results are apparent. At one meeting a man rose and said: "I have been made to feel as small as a peanut today because I have running water in my barn and not in my house, but I shall not be so a month longer."

One reason for the high cost of living is the extravagance of the age. The domestic science sections of the women's clubs are teaching that the shop windows and the advertisements of the daily newspapers have too strong an influence in setting the standards of the needs of the home. An era of education in this direction is already well under way. Women are being taught through the medium of the clubs that a few articles of good value for which a fair price is paid are vastly more to be desired than the accumulation of bargain day sales.

Simplicity the Keynote.

Domestic science deals with every matter pertaining to the comfort and beauty of the home. For this reason every club having a domestic science department will include some study in artistic furniture and interior decoration. Simplicity is more and more recognized as the keynote to be observed in the furnishing of the house. There must be economy of labor considered in the avoidance of nonessentials to be dusted and cared for. Because of its simplicity, all forms of what is known as the art and craft form of household furniture are apt to receive the favorable consideration of the club women studying this subject.

Another economy of recognized value is the utilization of all of the new labor-saving devices which have practical value. A number of large city clubs have formed the habit of having exhibitions to which the manufacturers are invited to send their newest inventions for practical demonstration. Sometimes a large hall is rented for the purpose and admission charged, the proceeds going to some popular philanthropy. At other times the manufacturers are glad to pay the expenses for the benefit of the advertising they receive. In either case the club women profit by the new ideas presented to them. In a number of towns the gas companies have cooperated to the extent of supplying gas ranges with all the latest appliances and perhaps in addition paying the salary of a cooking teacher to demonstrate the newest culinary wrinkles. During the past year, the paper bag cookery has been well brought forward in this way. It commends itself for its sanitary as well as its labor saving advantage, since it obviates the washing of cooking utensils as well as insuring perfect cleanliness in the handling of the food products.

Interested in Food Sanitation.

Aside from the cooking processes the domestic science exhibitions show the newest arrangements for cleaning, dusting and polishing, the latest appliances for laundry work, the newest styles of refrigerators and any other matter which may appeal to the committee as being of value to the comfort and order of the home.

The domestic science and the health departments of the clubs are equally interested in the subject of food sanitation and purity and work in harmony towards securing the best possible provisions for securing it. In Oregon and Washington a pace has been set in this direction which the club women of other states are glad to follow. The chairman of the food and sanitation committee of the Washington State federation has lately presented to the general federation a plan by which market sanitation may be secured in every city. It is based upon the plan which accomplished such great results in securing pure food in Portland and several other towns in Oregon and has been used with some modifications throughout the state of Washington. It consists of first organizing a pure food council, by securing the cooperation of the presidents of all women's organizations. From this council an executive committee should be appointed to confer with the health department of the town. Next, the cooperation of all of the newspapers should be secured, after which a campaign of store visitation can be begun.

CRIPPLE CREEK MINES

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, July 2.—The Elkton Consolidated Mining and Milling company made record production last month with a gross tonnage of 3,000 tons, with an average value—conservatimely estimated—of $20 to the ton.

The main shaft has been sunk to a depth of 1,100 feet, and from the station cut at this depth drifts are now being carried both ways on the vein.

Lessees on the properties of the company on the Tornado and Gregory are also producing, and their tonnage is not included in the figures above recorded. C. M. S. Smith, the lessee on the Gregory mine, shipped about 400 tons of milling grade ore, and Pete Whittenberger on the Tornado shipped from 200 to 250 tons to the mills.

Acacia G. M. Co.

The cleanup car from the Johnson lease on the South Burns mine of the Acacia Gold Mining company has brought settlement at the rate of five ounces gold to the ton. The South Burns Mining company will now operate this block.

Sinking Lonaconing Shaft.

Lund and Turnquist have secured the contract for the sinking of the Lonaconing shaft for Lessee W. H. Copeland and Denver associates, and commenced work today. The shaft, now 365 feet deep, is to be sunk an additional 100 feet. The property is owned by the El Paso Gold Mining company.

Raven and Beacon Hill Co.

The Elkton company, operating the property of the Beacon and Raven Hill Gold Mining company, immediately adjoining the Elkton estate, has sunk and timbered the new shaft to a depth of 100 feet, and the upraise connection from the 400-foot level of the Elkton main shaft will be carried through to connect by the end of August. Ore is exposed in the mine, but until connection is made and ventilation perfected no attempt will be made to mine the ore.

While in this city, Dawson was employed by the Beyle Furniture company, and was chancellor of the local Knights of Pythias lodge one term.

By Frederic J. Haskin.

By beginning first with the stores which are properly conducted, the cooperation of these merchants also can be secured as they profit by the advertising. Doctors and medical societies should be asked to aid as they have influence in creating public sentiment. All observations should be telephoned or written to the secretary of the council however in order that she may keep a complete record for use if necessary. When an ordinance is under consideration a continuous crusade should be kept up regarding the need of food protection. A few months' efforts under such systematic direction cannot but bring about the desired reforms.

THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE

IT WAS General Grant, we believe, who first declared that the Democrats can always be depended on to make a fatal blunder at a critical time, and the history of the party in the last half century has almost invariably borne out this assertion. Time and again, when Republican dissension created opportunity for Democratic victory, the party demonstrated the appropriateness of the donkey as its emblem by nominating the wrong candidate, taking up the wrong issue, or making some other fool move. Since the formation of the Republican party in 1856, fourteen administrations have passed into history, but the Democrats have controlled only two of them. If it had not been for their propensity for making blunders at the wrong time they doubtless would have fared better.

But even the donkey has occasional lucid intervals, and the Democratic animal is experiencing one this year. Wilson was first in the field with his candidacy, and as the country scrutinized his record and read his speeches it was impressed with his sanity and sound common sense. But at that time it could hardly hope for his nomination, for who ever heard of the Democrats choosing their best man?

Then Champ Clark got into the game with his idiotic "houn' dawg" song. In point of fitness for the Presidency the mythical dog is about as well equipped as his master, for despite Clark's long service in Congress he does not stand for a single definite principle or policy and his name is not associated with a single noteworthy achievement. Indeed, his chief claim on his party has been that he is an "old-fashioned Democrat," whatever that may mean. It often happens that a man of this type catches the ear of the public and sweeps the country, and this was what Clark did, almost. In the pre-convention campaign he won a long lead over Wilson and the other two candidates, Underwood and Harmon, and if it had not been for Bryan's courageous fight in the convention he almost certainly would have won the nomination. The Democratic party may well be thankful to the Nebraska leader for saving it from the colossal blunder which was indicated by the first ballots at Baltimore. And since the Democrats have a good chance of winning the election next November, the country as a whole is indebted to Bryan for pursuing a course which led to the selection of a fit man.

First of all, Governor Wilson is a man of unimpeachable character, and unflinching moral courage, and with educational attainments of an order such as are possessed by few men who reach high political station. He is not a politician in the usual sense of the term, although his nomination shows that his sort of politics wins in the long run. His public career has been brief, but it has been eventful enough to inspire confidence in his honesty of purpose and his devotion to principle. And finally, he is a thorough progressive, which in this day means much to the American people.

SEALS TAFT'S DOOM.

Wilson will beat Taft at least two to one, for which blessing let us give thanks. Things are looking better than they did ten days ago. Whatever else may happen, Taft is defeated, and the cause of representative government is safe.

THE THIRD-TERM BOGEY

MR. BRYAN has been on record for a long time as opposed, not only to a third Presidential term, but to a second one as well. He does not even sanction the proposal, so often heard, to lengthen the term to five years and forbid reelection. He thinks four years in the White House is as much as any man ought to have.

Perhaps it was the Democratic conscience that placed the following plank in the platform adopted at Baltimore last night:

> We favor a single Presidential term, and to that end we advise the adoption of an amendment to the constitution making the President of the United States ineligible for reelection, and we pledge the candidate of this convention to this principle.

There is no reference to the length of the term, so the amendment could make it four years, or five, or ten, and still comply with the letter of the Democratic platform. Nevertheless, the declaration is mere tommyrot.

What harm has ever befallen this country, or even threatened it, from the lack of a constitutional limitation of the time which a man may serve in the Presidency? Since the establishment of our government it has been deemed wise and proper to give a second term to a President who made good. The third-term bogey has been invoked only for political effect. It was used successfully to defeat Grant in 1880, and it was revived this year by all of the Roosevelt haters in the country, also for political effect. Nobody with intelligence enough to do his own thinking ever really believed for a minute that a third term involved any actual danger to the republic.

Washington has been quoted on this subject, but more often misquoted. The anti-third-termers profess to believe that he solemnly warned the country against continuing a President in office more than eight years, and himself declined a third term because he believed it to be a dangerous precedent. The truth is that Washington refused a third nomination because he was worn out and desired nothing so much as the peace of retirement. In a letter to Hamilton he expressly stated his conviction that the country ought to avail itself of the services of any man for an indefinite time, whenever in an emergency such course seemed wise.

And in this declaration Washington said about all there is to say on the subject. Whenever the people believed that a certain President is too valuable to be dispensed with it would be folly to retire him merely because of reverence for a myth.

A PLEA FOR THE ICEMAN.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

With much appreciation for your generosity in giving so much space from time to time in the Open Parliament, will you kindly print the following on next Wednesday morning?

Tomorrow is the "Glorious Fourth"—the day on which we commemorate liberty and independence—and we are all desirous of making that day the best day of all the year, because so long ago it brought so much to us. And if we are considerate we will want to give the other fellow a square deal.

The iceman would like to enjoy the Fourth also; why not help him to do so? On Wednesday order enough ice to last you over Thursday. It may cause you a little inconvenience, but it will add to your enjoyment on the Fourth because you will realize then that you have done your share in helping someone else to enjoy the day, and "Old Dobbin" will be glad too.

NOT AN ICEMAN.

Colorado Springs, July 2.

WOMEN'S SOCIAL USEFULNESS.

From the Kansas City Times.

Many tributes to the worth of women in the state were made in yesterday's session of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Rather, it should be said that statements of their many services were made. The statements were tributes because they were true.

And this is to pass over those general universal services, encompassed in the old sentiment, "the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world."

There is hardly a vital public move of these days that is not indebted to women as well as to men for its progress. In considering ethics, social welfare and politics, if one does not mention some women who have aided their advance it is because there have been too many of them for such individual enumeration.

The women have done what they have without the general right of suffrage. The fact is certainly not an argument against their demand for equal voting rights with men. But it does demonstrate that the ballot is not the only instrument of social and political usefulness.

EMBARRASSING BLINDNESS OF CANDIDATE TAFT.

From the New York American.

Mr. Taft's campaign is made more desperate than the ordinary run of forlorn hopes, because he exasperates and embarrasses his captains and counselors by a total failure to understand his own case. Thus, in his formal statement issued from the White house on Sunday morning, Mr. Taft raised goose flesh on all Republican bosses. He celebrates his nomination as a personal victory won by his own heroic defiance of custom—in taking the stump against Mr. Roosevelt.

Of course, all the world knows, and none better than the convention leaders who turned the trick, that Mr. Taft's nomination was accomplished—in spite of his enormous unpopularity and the depressing effects of his stump-speaking—by the sheer brute force of a national committee that was expressly picked for that kind of work four years ago.

Mr. Taft says: "Never before in the history of the country was such a preconvention campaign fought. Precedents of propriety were broken in a president's taking the stump, much to the pain and discomfort of many patriotic, high-minded citizens; but the emergency was great, and the course thus taken was necessary to avert a national calamity, and, IN VIEW OF THE RESULT, IT WAS JUSTIFIED."

Now the "view of the result" that is taken by the Taft managers, in their secret hearts, is that Mr. Taft has not only exposed the Republican machine to universal reprobation, but has overstrained it and cracked it to death, by a course of public speaking that so completely demonstrated the popular dislike of the president that nothing on earth can longer keep it.

The overstrained machine, Taft's own creation, is going to pieces in the hands of its progenitor and manipulator. And that the Taft candidature arrived at the door of the convention in such a state of depletion and distress that nothing but a prodigy of machine power could lift it to the fragile platform.

Before Mr. Taft took the stump, his small store of popularity that had survived the Aldrich alliance, the Winona speech, the Ballinger case and the veto of the reformed woolen schedule had been wiped out by a succession of such incidents as the enforced resignation of Dr. Wiley, the Penrose-Archbald disgrace and the Taftian fanaticism toward Arizona.

Thus, when the president was shocked into sudden campaigning activity by the news of what had been done in the Illinois primaries on a Tuesday, he succeeded only in eliciting a still more alarming report from the Pennsylvania primaries on the following Saturday. From the comparatively mild rebuff of Massachusetts, Mr. Taft descended in his spiral "swing around the circle" to the staggering rebuke of his own state of Ohio. He struck the unyielding bottom of public repugnance when the state of New Jersey refused to give him a single delegate.

"In view of the result" it is evident that the dead weight of Taft has started every rivet in the Republican machine.

Centershots

By ED HOWE.

People who wouldn't rob a cripple have less scruples about taking advantage of a man who can afford it.

If it is true that our ancestors were so bad that it became necessary to drown all of them except Noah and his family, people are not that bad now; so while we have not improved as much as we should, we have improved some.

It must require a good deal of nerve for a leader to say the people are starving slaves when they are really enjoying more liberty and prosperity than was ever before known in the history of any race.

When a Reform movement results in the use of firearms, it is a sign that one side or the other has gone too far. Peaceful public sentiment is usually powerful enough to bring about every change that is necessary and proper.

People admire a man and wife who are happy, but if the happy husband and wife talk too much about it, there will be ill-natured comment.

Every good thing is promptly overloaded as soon as we know positively that it is a good thing.

In a big job, a man can't hang on month after month, and make explanations every Saturday night; he must either make good, or quit.

Some men are as incapable of appreciating that industry and fairness pay better than idleness and petty violations of the rules.

A friend not only tells the secret intrusted to him, he makes it worse than you told it.

Do You Love Railway Stations?

By RUTH CAMERON.

There are some kinds of eavesdropping that are really quite excusable, don't you think so?

The crowd held me close behind two young people in the railway station the other night, so close I couldn't help hearing all they said; and what is more I wouldn't have if I could. For that was the kind of eavesdropping that I call harmless.

He was tall and broad shouldered and fine looking, the kind of young man we like to call typically American. She was a little person, not at all pretty, but with a piquant, radiant face that fairly shone with the love of living. Just then it was tip-tilted up to his, and she was saying with a voice as gadiant as the face, "Oh, my dear, isn't this place lovely?"

He laughed—a heartily, infectious laugh—that was also typically American.

"Well, I don't care," she protested, "it's so exciting and interesting. Everybody's going somewhere and it makes one feel kind of important and alive, and you wonder who everybody is and where they are going and if they are as happy as you are. I just love railway stations."

The crowd suddenly shifted and I was swept in another direction and rudely interrupted in my shameless eavesdropping, but not before I heard the man laugh again. Did you ever realize that a laugh can be as loving as a caress? It can.

The little person, as I said before, was not in the least pretty, while her big lover was tall and clean and handsome, the kind of man that all women just naturally fall in love with. And he had chosen her and was evidently about as much in love as a man can be. Do you want to know what I think was the charm in her that won him away from the prettier girls he might undoubtedly have had?

The fact that she loved railway stations.

You are laughing at that? Well, of course, I only meant it symbolically. That little speech of hers was symbolical of the zest that she evidently found in living. She was undoubtedly one of those blessed folks who are always full of a relish of life, who are so interested, so alive and awake, that even a railway station is an absorbingly interesting place to them. Consequently I did not wonder how the man happened to fall in love with her. I only wondered if he realized how fortunate he was.

A zest in living, such as that which made this little person's face and personality radiant is partly inborn; it also has something to do with one's supply of health and vitality. But again it is partly the result of deliberately refusing to grow old. Keeping the child heart always alive within one, and of opening wide the windows of one's heart and mind to the helpfulness and meaning of life.

No one who has seen the least share of this charm can help desiring it. No one, no matter how beautiful or brilliant, is complete without it.

Do you love railway stations? Is it too late for you to learn to?

What the Press Agents Say

"A NATION'S PERIL" AT THE ODEON, TOMORROW, JULY 4

A gripping story of patriotism, love and intrigue, carried on before Uncle Sam's very eyes, in one of the United States coast artillery forts, showing the big 14-inch guns in action, the submarine mine chart room, from which a battleship's tender, bearing the spies of another nation, is blown to atoms.

The strongest, most sensational picture ever put on the screen, written by a United States coast artillery officer and played within the portals of one of our frowning fortresses, the picture is correct in every detail, and will hold you enthralled and spellbound.

The mine explosion alone, hurling thousands of tons of water into a column 90 feet high, and carrying the fragments of the shattered vessel, makes this picture surpass all others.

"A Nation's Peril" is a Pathe feature in two reels. This will be shown in addition to the regular program, consisting of the Pathe Weekly and two more that make five reels, or a show lasting almost two hours. The admission will be 10c for adults and 5c for children. Remember, one day only, July 4, at the Odeon.

NOTES FROM THE BURNS

The town's talking—

About Belasco's "Lily."

The crowd last night was enthusiastic.

Avoid the box office rush by calling Main 209.

Tomorrow's the glorious Fourth; have you ordered seats?

Three immense flagpoles now grace the Burns building.

"Hats off to the best show of the year, 'The Lily.'" Last evening's issue of the Telegraph.

Democratic Nominee Wilson of New Jersey is a staunch friend of legitimate drama, and was instrumental in establishing a department of dramatic literature at Princeton.

Parents need have no fear in sending the junior members of the family to the Burns, the theater with every courtesy and safety.

Yesterday afternoon and last evening as well, there were frequent upheavals of applause, and at the conclusion of the second act every member of the company was given a curtain call.

Real "firecracker" music in that special musical program for tomorrow afternoon and night, and when Prof. William Fink says a thing, musically speaking, it's about as well as done.

The "Celebrated Gavotte," a cello solo by Mr. Walter H. Heermann, between the second and third acts of "The Lily" is a classic of its kind; it is included in tonight's musical numbers.

"The Lion and the Mouse" for the week commencing next Monday night. The cast is especially suited to each and every one of the characters, and the staging will be fully up to the highest standard.

Preparations are well under way for one of the celebrated George Cohan's musical comedies, and as the chorus required will be large, local singers will be given a "try out." Early registration should be made.

Ask the "knowing ones" about "The Lily."

AT THE MAJESTIC, ECLAIR COMEDY TRIUMPH, "THE RUSTIC MAIDEN"

Nell Knickerbocker, a wealthy heiress, returns to New York after four years' study abroad, to find that the daughters of her friend, Mrs. Van Kleeck, have been so spoiled by luxury and good times that they are unbearable. The talented Nell promises to cure them, by masquerading as a country cousin. She pays a visit to the Van Kleeck household, and by her "rustic" manners and pranks, completely conquers the haughty spirit of the disagreeable daughters. They take her to dinner parties, theater and a dance; at every place she monopolizes the attentions of the men, despite her pretense at awkwardness and "greenness." In the end she shows her musical ability, and wins for herself a husband, who she is sure does not marry her for her money. The film teaches the lesson of humility and good nature, in a clean spirit of jollity which will bring happy applause from your audiences. More "Rustic Maidens" are needed in thousands of American homes!

Then there's 101—Bison—101 and an Animated Weekly, with all the news of the week in pictures, including the Republican National convention, the Coliseum and the crowds, Senator Borah of Idaho, Roosevelt's double! John M. Keyes, of Massachusetts, the Chicago Flower Girls, Elbert Hubbard, reporter, biggest newspaper stunt in history, Sunflowers of Kansas, John Wanamaker, Colonel Roosevelt, President Taft.

Also good music, by George, and the price is 5 cents for any seat.

"THE BLUE MOUSE," MATINEE AND NIGHT, TODAY.

James Hawley and Garrick Players will be seen in the greatest of Clyde Fitch's comedy success, "The Blue Mouse," at the Opera house today, matinee and night. The play will run the week through, with a special matinee tomorrow (Thursday), July 4. "The Blue Mouse" is a play most suited to the Fourth of July, and shot is fired every second—that is to say, "shot of laughs." This comedy is meeting with great success this week, having opened on Monday evening to a packed house, and it looks as if they are bound to see "The Blue Mouse," as last night's audience was a goodly one.

A better production could not have been picked by the management to be more fitting to the Hawley cast of players. Each and every member have roles that "fit like gloves."

Again the old saying can shine, "Go where the crowds go."

THE HASKIN LETTER

WOMEN'S CLUB WORK
IX—IN DOMESTIC SCIENCE AND FOR PURE FOOD.

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Long years before the general federation was formed or even thought of, a prominent woman, speaking before a body of earnest club women interested in self-improvement said: "Let it never for a moment be forgotten that a club woman's first duty is to her home. No outside work can ever make up for the neglect of home duties." Despite many assertions to the contrary, the spirit of this statement has always been the keynote of women's club efforts so it follows that while civics, education and other matters have been seemingly most popular, there has never been a time when domestic science in its broadest sense was not a dominant feature in the club work of the women of every state.

The changes in industrial conditions have wrought changes in the home life of every family and, therefore, domestic science, household economics or whatever other term is applied to home making, had first to take into consideration the application of modern conditions to the demands of the family—many of these demands being in a fluid state of evolution. With the coming of higher educational advantages for women ther came temporarily a distaste for many things domestic. Mothers took a pride in the intellectual attainment of their daughters and neglected to train them for caring for their future families. Then too, when women were forced into wage earning positions they had not always the opportunity to prepare for homemaking. The result of this neglect has become apparent in the present generation and the club women are quick to profit by the lesson. Now the pendulum is swinging towards the middle again, and, while the girls are being liberally educated in every chosen calling, the fact is not lost sight of that every woman, at some period of her life, is likely to have a home to care for so a preparation for this is being made a part of her education. Besides this, the domestic science work of the clubs aims to help the women who did not receive instruction in home making before marriage to use all means possible for increasing the comfort of their families.

Helping Hand for Other Clubs.

The General Federation of Women's Clubs extends a helping hand to every club working along any line of domestic science. There are many lectures upon this subject suited to the different needs of the individual clubs. Some of them consist of practical, concise information upon every-day subjects which help untrained housewives to provide better food and clothing and more comfort for their families and to spend less money in doing so. For the women who have mastered this elementary part of the work there are courses in the chemistry of food, in advanced ideas in home furnishings and kindred other topics. The lessons advocated by club women are always suited to the needs of the people to whom they are presented. For instance, cooking lessons for the wives of men on a small salary will not contain recipes for making a cake calling for a dozen eggs but it may give simple directions for making one that is both good and wholesome requiring two or three eggs.

When it is considered that 90 per cent of all that people earn is spent for food, clothing or shelter the importance of securing the maximum value from this expenditure cannot be disputed. The time has come when housekeeping is recognized as a science calling for special instruction instead of an unskilled employment that can be picked up haphazard without any training. It is impossible, in many homes, for the mother to give this instruction even when she is competent to do it and it becomes the aim of the club to work for the welfare of the home in this way. Under the auspices of the club women of Colorado, lecturers have been sent out to many small towns in order that the gospel of right living might be sent to the women who most need it.

Lectures Deeply Appreciated.

Sometimes these lectures have been given in halls and skating rinks unattractive in appearance and lacking in many conveniences, but the attendance evidenced the appreciation of the audiences. Women came pouring in, sometimes carrying a baby or two with them. Often they have ridden miles through snow storms or walked long muddy roads to reach the lectures which are generally given in courses continuing a week or 10 days. During that time systematic instruction in hygiene, the care of small children and the preparation of simple food is given. At the close of a course in one small town, a middle aged woman came forward and said: "If I could have had a week like this when I was a young housekeeper I would have saved quarts of tears and long hours of wretchedness. I did not know how to keep house and my first two babies died because I did not know how to take care of them."

The club women are keeping in mind the fact that more than $10,000,000,000 annually is spent in the United States for food, shelter and clothing. The same amount of money to be expended in other ways or to be invested in a commercial manner would be safeguarded by the trained experience of those having it in charge. Yet until a comparatively recent period little attention was paid in the training of the persons who are to handle this great sum for the benefits of the American homes. The domestic science course of the women's clubs takes the stand that home economy is as important to the political economy of the nation as any other branch of finance.

Women Invited to Meetings.

Under the direction of the club women, domestic science conferences to which the men are invited also are held regularly in many of the states. In many instances the women cannot have the necessary appliances for the improvement of the home because the men hold the purse strings. This fact is especially true in the farming districts and is largely responsible for the discontent that prevails among farmers' wives. There are farms which have every outside convenience, including running water in the barn and yet the wife and mother may be using an old tomato can in the kitchen for a dipper and be forced to pump every drop of water she uses or to carry it for a considerable distance from a well or spring. When such subjects are discussed in open meeting in the presence of men it is surprising how soon results are apparent. At one meeting a man rose and said: "I have been made to feel as small as a peanut today because I have running water in my barn and not in my house, but it shall not be so a month longer."

One reason for the high cost of living is the extravagance of the age. The domestic science sections of the women's clubs are teaching that the shop windows and the advertisements of the daily newspapers have too strong an influence in setting the standards of the needs of the home. An era of education in this direction is already well under way. Women are being taught through the medium of the clubs that a few articles of good value for which a fair price is paid, are vastly more to be desired than the accumulation of bargain day sales.

Simplicity the Keynote.

Domestic science deals with every matter pertaining to the comfort and beauty of the home. For this reason every club having a domestic science department will include some study in artistic furniture and interior decoration. Simplicity is more and more recognized as the keynote to be observed in the furnishing of the house. There must be economy of labor considered in the avoidance of nonessentials to be dusted and cared for. Because of its simplicity, all forms of what is known as the art and craft form of household furniture are apt to receive the favorable consideration of the club women studying this subject.

Another economy of recognized value is the utilization of all of the new labor-saving devices which have practical value. A number of large city clubs have formed the habit of having exhibitions to which the manufacturers are invited to send their newest inventions for practical demonstration. Sometimes a large hall is rented for the purpose and admission charged, the proceeds going to some popular philanthropy. At other times the manufacturers are glad to pay the expenses for the benefit of the advertising they receive. In either case the club women profit by the new ideas presented to them. In a number of towns the gas companies have cooperated to the extent of supplying gas ranges with all the latest appliances and perhaps in addition having the salary of a cooking teacher to demonstrate the newest culinary wrinkles. During the past year the paper bag cookery has been well brought forward in this way. It commends itself for its sanitary as well as its labor saving advantage since it obviates the washing of cooking utensils as well as insuring perfect cleanliness in the handling of the food products.

Interested in Food Sanitation.

Aside from the cooking processes, the domestic science exhibitions show the newest arrangements for cleaning, dusting and polishing, the latest appliances for laundry work, the newest styles of refrigerators and any other matter which may appeal to the committee as being of value to the comfort and order of the home.

The domestic science and the health departments of the clubs are equally interested in the subject of food sanitation and purity and work in harmony towards securing the best possible provisions for securing it. In Oregon and Washington a pace has been set in this direction which the club women of other states are glad to follow. The chairman of the food and sanitation committee of the Washington State federation has lately presented to the general federation a plan by which market sanitation may be secured in every city. It is based upon the plan which accomplished such great results in securing pure food in Portland and several other towns in Oregon and has been used with some modifications throughout the state of Washington. It consists of first organizing a pure food council, by securing the cooperation of the presidents of all women's organizations. From this council an executive committee should be appointed to confer with the health department of the town. Next, the cooperation of all of the newspapers should be secured, after which a campaign of store visitation can be begun.

CRIPPLE CREEK MINES

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, July 2.—The Elkton Consolidated Mining and Milling company made record production last month with a gross tonnage of 3,000 tons, with an average value—conservatively estimated—of $20 to the ton.

The main shaft has been sunk to a depth of 1,100 feet, and from the station cut at this depth drifts are now being carried both ways on the vein.

Lessees on the properties of the company on the Tornado and Gregory are also producing, and their tonnage is not included in the figures above reported. C. M. S. Smith, the lessee on the Gregory mine, shipped about 400 tons of milling grade ore, and Pete Whittenberger on the Tornado shipped from 200 to 250 tons to the mills.

Acacia G. M. Co.

The cleanup car from the Johnson lease on the South Burns mine of the Acacia Gold Mining company has brought settlement at the rate of five ounces sold to the ton. The South Burns Mining company will now operate this block.

Sinking Lonaconing Shaft.

Lund and Turnquist have secured the contract for the sinking of the Lonaconing shaft for Lessee W. H. Copeland and Denver associates, and commenced work today. The shaft, now 365 feet deep, is to be sunk an additional 100 feet. The property is owned by the El Paso Gold Mining company.

Raven and Beacon Hill Co.

The Elkton company, operating the property of the Beacon and Raven Hill Gold Mining company, immediately adjoining the Elkton estate, has sunk and timbered the new shaft to a depth of 100 feet, and the upraise connection from the 700-foot level of the Elkton main shaft will be carried through to connect by the end of August. This is exposed in the mine, but until connection is made and ventilation perfected no attempt will be made to mine the ore.

By Frederic J. Haskin.

By beginning first with the stores which are properly conducted, the co-operation of these merchants also can be secured as they profit by the advertising. Doctors and medical societies should be asked to aid as they have influence in creating public sentiment. All observations should be telephoned or written to the secretary of the council however in order that she may keep a complete record for use if necessary. When an ordinance is under consideration a continuous crusade should be kept up regarding the need of food protection. A few months' efforts under such systematic direction cannot but bring about the desired reforms.

Report of Certified Public Accountant Upon Myron Stratton Home Corporation

Colorado Springs, Colorado, June 28th, 1912.

Messrs. D. H. Rice, Tyson S. Dines and Wm. Ledoux, Trustees of The Myron Stratton Home Corporation, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Gentlemen: I herewith hand you my report, with financial Exhibits "A" and "B," attached thereto, and forming part thereof, as the result of my audit for the year 1911, as called for by your By-Laws.

Said statements are compiled from the Records, Ledger, Cash Book and Vouchers of The Myron Stratton Home Corporation, and are in balance therewith; the Cash Balance as called for is correct and on deposit in the name of The Myron Stratton Home Corporation.

I have in addition also audited the books and accounts of the following Companies controlled by your Corporation:

Executors of Estate of W. S. Stratton.
Trustees of Estate of W. S. Stratton.
International Realty Company.
Colorado Springs and Interurban Railway Co.
Stratton Cripple Creek Mining and Development Co.
Arcadia Cons. Mining Co.
Granite Hill M. & M. Co.
Maton Gold M. Co.
Reno M. & M. Co.
Sacramento G. M. & M. Co.
Starr King G. M. Co.
Zenobia G. M. Co.

and again beg to report that I have found the Records and Accounts of The Myron Stratton Home Corporation, as well as those of all the Companies and Estates just mentioned, correctly and neatly kept; all receipts as far as could possibly be checked up have been accounted for; all disbursements are evidenced by signed vouchers except in a few instances of the C. S. and I. Rwy. Co. of insignificant amounts, where the vouchers have been submitted for claims made and have not been returned; in such instances I have taken the cancelled checks as evidence of payment.

From the examination of the different vouchers I am fully satisfied, as before, that due care and diligence is exercised in the purchase of supplies and, in the disbursement of all monies of The Myron Stratton Home Corporation, as well as of all the different controlled Companies heretofore mentioned.

I have examined all securities called for in the different accounts, and find them all on hand or accounted for.

I have also audited the accounts of The Broadmoor Hotel and Casino, and while the profits of 1910 were merely nominal, the season of 1911 was as good as could be expected under all circumstances.

I have not audited the accounts of The Brown Palace Hotel, other than, as before, to examine the monthly reports of "The Home" office, as a separate audit has been made in Denver by Mr. M. M. Hamma, C. P. A.

During the year 1911 there were no dividends paid by The Colorado Springs and Interurban Railway Company, as shown by Exhibit "A," as I understand the management of the Street Railway Company deemed it wise and necessary to husband its cash reserve to meet the anticipated heavy expense of street paving, now in operation.

About $600.00 due January 1st, 1912, for supplies and light furnished is not included in the accompanying financial Exhibits; but will appear, when collected, as a correct record is kept of such amounts due.

The Assets as set down, except The Colorado Springs and Interurban Railway Co.'s Bonds, which are now carried at par, are the book values based on valuation made by Judge J. A. Elston, appointed by the Hon. Robt. E. Kerr, then Judge of the Probate Court, as appraiser to ascertain the value of the Estate, to determine the amount of inheritance tax due the State of Colorado. Again I take pleasure in testifying to the thorough businesslike method pursued in conducting the affairs of "The Home" Corporation and of the different controlled Companies, as evidenced by the manner in keeping the minutes, records and details complete and in looking after the expenditures in all channels.

Owing to press of business, I regret not having been able to render this, my report, to you sooner.

As I find the same excellent conditions existing now as at the time of my previous report, necessarily this now is a repetition of my former report.

In closing, I again wish to thank all the officers, especially the Secretary and Treasurer, and the numerous different employes with whom I have been thrown in contact, for the uniform courtesy extended me, and the desire on the part of all to assist me in this audit, placing every facility possible at my command.

Respectfully submitted.

HORACE H. MITCHELL,
Certified Public Accountant.

NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, July 2.—Stocks made further upward progress today, the early movement having more snap and breadth than any of recent date. A very considerable part of the trading was in the industrials, United States Steel reassuming its old-time leadership at a smart advance.

Standard shares participated in the general rise, with gains most marked in Reading, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio and Missouri Pacific. Profit taking later wiped out most of these advances and business came to a standstill, but the market's strong undertone was maintained up to the last hour. The close was irregular.

There was a better demand for long loan money, but no appreciable change of rates.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $3,247,000.

United States government bonds were unchanged on call.

CHICAGO MARKET

CHICAGO, July 2.—Sentiment turned bearish today regarding wheat. The basis was the general rainfall covering the spring crop country last night and this morning. Closing prices were easy, ¾c to net lower. All talk of crop damage northwest had to stop for the time being as a result of the plentiful deposit of moisture in the Dakotas and Minnesota. During the day September fluctuated between $1.03 and $1.04⅝, with close $1.03¾, a loss of ⅝@⅞c compared with 24 hours before.

Corn weakened in consequence of the fine weather. September ranged from 70⅞c to 71⅛@⅝c, closing steady, ¼@⅜c under last night at 71¼c. No. 2 yellow was quoted at 75@75¼c. Dealers in oats reported increased offerings from the country. September swung between 38⅛c and 38⅞c, with last sales ⅜c net lower at 38¼c.

A heavy increase in the world stocks of lard counted against provision prices. As on outcome of the day's transactions, nearly all deliveries were cut 7½c to 10c.

Report of Certified Public Accountant Upon Myron Stratton Home Corporation

Colorado Springs, Colorado, June 28th, 1912.

Messrs. D. H. Rice Tyson S. Dines and Wm. Lennox, Trustees of The Myron Stratton Home Corporation, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Gentlemen: I herewith hand you my report, with financial Exhibits "A" and "B," attached thereto, and forming part thereof, as the result of my audit for the year 1911, as called for by your By-Laws.

Said statements are compiled from the Records, Ledger, Cash Book and Vouchers of The Myron Stratton Home Corporation, and are in balance therewith; the Cash Balance as called for is correct and on deposit in the name of The Myron Stratton Home Corporation.

I have in addition also audited the books and accounts of the following Companies, controlled by your Corporation:

Executors of Estate of W. S. Stratton.
Trustees of Estate of W. S. Stratton
International Realty Company.
Colorado Springs and Interurban Railway Co.
Stratton Cripple Creek Mining and Development Co
Arcadia Cons. Mining Co.
Granite Hill M. & M. Co.
Matoa Gold M. Co.
Reno M. & M. Co.
Sacramento G. M. & M. Co.
Starr King G. M. Co.
Zenobia G. M. Co.

and again beg to report that I have found the Records and Accounts of The Myron Stratton Home Corporation, as well as those of all the Companies and Estates just mentioned, correctly and neatly kept; all receipts, as far as could possibly be checked up have been accounted for; all disbursements are evidenced by signed vouchers except, in a few instances of the C. S. and I. Ryy. Co. of insignificant amounts, where the vouchers have been submitted for claims made and have not been returned; in such instances I have taken the cancelled checks as evidence of payment.

From the examination of the different vouchers I am fully satisfied, as before, that due care and diligence is exercised in the purchase of supplies and in the disbursement of all monies of The Myron Stratton Home Corporation, as well as of all the different controlled Companies heretofore mentioned.

I have examined all securities called for in the different accounts, and find them all on hand or accounted for.

I have also audited the accounts of The Broadmoor Hotel and Casino, and while the profits of 1910 were merely nominal; the season of 1911 was as good as could be expected under all circumstances.

I have not audited the accounts of The Brown Palace Hotel, other than, as before, to examine the monthly reports of "The Home" office, as a separate audit has been made in Denver by Mr. M. M. Hatuma, C. P. A.

During the year 1911 there were no dividends paid by The Colorado Springs and Interurban Railway Company, as shown by Exhibit "A," as I understand the management of the Street Railway Company deemed it wise and necessary to husband its cash reserve to meet the anticipated heavy expense of street paving, now in operation.

About $600.00 due January 1st, 1912, for supplies and light furnished is not included in the accompanying financial Exhibits; but will appear, when collected, as a correct record is kept of such amounts due.

The Assets as set down, except The Colorado Springs and Interurban Railway Co.'s Bonds, which are now carried at par, are the book values based on valuation made by Judge J. A. Elston, appointed by the Hon. Robt. E. Kerr, then Judge of the Probate Court, as appraiser to ascertain the value of the Estate, to determine the amount of inheritance tax due the State of Colorado. Again I take pleasure in testifying to the thorough businesslike method pursued in conducting the affairs of "The Home" Corporation and of the different controlled Companies, as evidenced by the manner in keeping the minutes, records and details complete and in looking after the expenditures in all channels.

Owing to press of business, I regret not having been able to render this, my report, to you sooner.

As I find the same excellent conditions existing now as at the time of my previous report, necessarily much now is a repetition of my former report.

In closing, I again wish to thank all the officers, especially the Secretary and Treasurer, and the numerous different employes with whom I have been thrown in contact, for the uniform courtesy extended me, and the desire on the part of all to assist me in this audit, placing every facility possible at my command.

Respectfully submitted.

HORACE H. MITCHELL,
Certified Public Accountant.

NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, July 2.—Stocks made further upward progress today, the early movement having more snap and breadth than any of recent date. A very considerable part of the trading was in the industrials, United States Steel reassuming its old-time leadership at a smart advance.

Standard shares participated in the general rise, with gains most marked in Reading, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio and Missouri Pacific. Profit taking later wiped out most of these advances and business came to a standstill, but the market's strong undertone was maintained up to the last hour. The close was irregular.

There was a better demand for long loan money, but no appreciable change of rates.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $3,247,000.

United States government bonds were unchanged on call.

CHICAGO MARKET

CHICAGO, July 2.—Sentiment turned bearish today regarding wheat. The basis was the general rainfall covering the spring crop country last night and this morning. Closing prices were easy, ¾c to net lower. All talk of crop damage northwest had to stop for the time being as a result of the plentiful deposit of moisture in the Dakotas and Minnesota. During the day September fluctuated between $1.03 and $1.04⅛, with close $1.03¾, a loss of ⅞@1⅛c compared with 24 hours before.

Corn weakened in consequence of the fine weather. September ranged from 70⅞c to 71½@⅝c, closing steady, ¼@⅝c under last night at 71¼c. No. 2 yellow was quoted at 75@76½c. Dealers in oats reported increased offerings from the country. September swung between 38⅛c and 38⅞c, with last sales ¾c net lower at 38¾c.

A heavy increase in the world stocks of lard counted against provision prices. As an outcome of the day's transactions, nearly all deliveries were cut 7½c to 10c.
